This contract is for the purchase of supplies for adult EZ-IO® intraosseous infusion systems for the Emergency Medical Services Department (EMS). Each ambulance in the Austin Travis County Emergency Medical Service (ATCEMS) is currently equipped with this system that allows an intraosseous needle to be drilled into the interior of a patient's bone to deliver fluids and medications to the central circulatory system. This tool is used to obtain emergency vascular access for patients in whom peripheral IV access is difficult or impossible.

All field staff are trained on this model and replacement equipment and supplies must be compatible with the existing stock to ensure the interoperability and a uniform standard of training and practice.

Cardio Vascular Concepts, Inc. is the sole authorized distributor of these products for Vidacare Corporation, the manufacturer, for most of the Southwest. Vidacare Corporation is the only known source for these type supplies.
