Proposal for the Austin Fire Department for Collapse Rescue Operations Course

The Texas Engineering Extension Service (TEEX) Urban Search & Rescue Division (US&R) is pleased to offer the Austin Fire Department the Collapse Rescue Operations 50 hour course to be held at our Disaster City® location in College Station, Texas. The Austin Fire Department will occupy a minimum of 28 and a maximum of 36 places in the April 11th-15th, 2011 open enrollment class.

COURSE OVERVIEW

The Collapse Rescue Operations course is 50 hours, five days in length, ten hours of instruction each day, and is designed to provide participants with the operational knowledge, skills and abilities to perform rescue at structural collapse scenes due to natural disasters or human forces. This course meets and exceeds NFPA 1670 for structural collapse operations. In addition, this course completes the requirements for structural collapse technician NFPA 1006 when combined with the ICS pre-requisites and knowledge, skills and abilities in search of collapse structures, heavy rigging, and pre hospital EMS skills.

COURSE COSTS

The following table provides the costs for TEEX US&R delivery of the above course at our Disaster City ® location in College Station, TX.

Course	Minimum Students	Total Fee	Maximum Students	Total Fee
Collapse Rescue Operations	28	$56,000.00	36	$72,000.00
