Additional Backup Information

This amendment was initiated by the Travis County Commissioners Court to change the requirements for plat approval for any residential subdivision which is located in the City of Austin's Extraterritorial Jurisdiction (ETJ) that is in Travis County, by requiring the applicant to include a cover page with a consumer protection notice for homebuyers. The amendment is intended to notify citizens who purchase lots in the subdivision that there may be fewer local controls in the County for any development near or adjacent to the subdivision, and that development may occur that may not be compatible with their subdivision and may affect the enjoyment and value of their home.
