In the words of the Executive Director:

"When Laila discovered she was pregnant she called our office asking for information about abortion. She found our phone number in the pages of the phone book and made an appointment to discuss her decision.

When Laila met with our caseworker she was brought into our comfortable counseling room away from the traffic and earshot of the rest of the office. We've designed our counseling room to resemble a living room to help clients feel more at ease. As she began to relax, Laila opened up about her fears of having a baby; she was afraid she couldn't afford the burden of parenting and was afraid her mother would cut off her financial support to finish school. She was studying at Texas A&M with money from an account her parents had set up for her.

Laila informed our caseworker that her father was deceased and that her mother took a hard line with her. When she first arrived at college she got involved in drugs for a short time. Her mother found out about the drugs and threatened to cut Laila off if she didn't get her act together within 90 days. Laila quit using drugs and hasn't returned since, but the incident made her fearful of her mother's response. Her mother had already disowned her "black sheep" brother, so abortion felt like the only option.

Our caseworker provided much information about financial assistance and social services. Laila wasn't familiar with services like Medicaid for prenatal support because she had grown up with private insurance. When asked if the father would be involved in the new baby's life, Laila indicated that she was hopeful he would be.

Laila was also informed about the option of adoption and its potential for openness with an adoptive family. She expressed that she was hesitant to consider adoption because she'd had two extended family members with adoption experiences and both had expressed negative feelings about it.

By the end of her visit Laila was seriously considering all of the different alternatives to abortion that the counselor had presented to her. She said she was still very stressed and emotional over the situation but that she was hopeful and would take time to consider her options before making a decision.

A week later Laila brought her boyfriend along to her appointment. She asked about marriage, single parenting, and co-parenting. Since her last visit, Laila and her boyfriend discussed their options and realized they were capable of parenting their child. They shared very similar goals but had very different communication styles. Their caseworker discussed the importance of setting parenting goals, educational goals and the need to cooperate with one another. They were encouraged to ask their mentors for advice on healthy communication. The counselor explained that they'd need to develop these skills in order to effectively communicate and ultimately make the best decisions for their child. The meeting ended well with everyone feeling excited about the road forward.

A few months passed and our caseworker followed up with Laila to find out how she was doing. Laila had decided to keep the baby and was pleasantly surprised at her mother's cooperation and support of the pregnancy. They agreed that Laila would move home to her mother's house and attend cosmetology school in order to help pay for her baby's expenses as well as some household expenses.

Her relationship with the baby's father did not work out so well. Our caseworker encouraged Laila to treat the father with respect and make it possible for him to "catch up" in his actions toward her and the baby. She was given pointers on how to treat and speak to him in a way that honored him as the father of the baby. After Laila's discussion with our counselor, she realized it was imperative that she facilitate a healthy relationship with the father so he would be more likely to physically and financially support their child.

Laila thanked our caseworker for providing a listening ear, a valuable perspective, and knowledgeable advice. Two caring, 90-minute office visits and five comforting phone calls were the guidance it took to give Laila success in choosing life. She said the support she received at AggieLand Pregnancy Outreach gave her the courage to explore all of her options, restore family relationships, and make a life-honoring decision for herself and her child."

- V. Corrective Actions Taken: Fire extinguishers were recently inspected and are now tagged. Spiritual materials were labeled and separated from non-spiritual materials.

V. Client Success Story

*Note: The following paragraphs describe a case successfully managed by the Service Provider evaluated in this report since it joined the Texas Alternative to Abortion Services Program. It is shared for the limited purpose of illustrating the quality and scope of the Service Provider's work. The clients have given their consent for their story to be included in this report, and their names have been changed to protect their privacy.

To illustrate services Family Care Connection provides to parenting clients, in addition to pregnant clients, the Executive Director shared the story of their clients, Maria and Sam:

Maria is a 21 year old, single, Hispanic woman. She and her child's father, Sam, live together with their three month old baby. Maria and Sam have attended several group sessions that covered pre-natal, pregnancy, parenting and healthy relationships. They have received individual counseling and material assistance.

Maria took her first pregnancy test at about 5 weeks of pregnancy and was unhappy to find that the test was positive. She wasn't sure she wanted to become a parent at that point in her life because she didn't think she'd be able to provide for a child. She considered abortion but was afraid to follow through with it. Maria received her prenatal care through a health clinic in Dallas, who referred her and Sam to our program.

At one of the sessions Maria and Sam viewed the DVD, In the Womb. Once the video concluded, Maria and Sam said they felt they were educated on facts regarding conception and development and that they were confident they had made the right decision to continue with the pregnancy.

Prior to meeting Sam, Maria had been incarcerated for several years due to an assault charge. They were in need of positive relationship skills building education. Maria and Sam attended our "Parenting Is a Partnership" class which is an interactive healthy relationship class for unmarried co-parenting couples. The class covered finances, development of good communication skills, managing anger, red flags of domestic violence, co-parenting, and breast feeding. We partnered with WIC (Women, Infants and Children) for this class and they provided breast pumps and pads for the attendees. In addition, all attendees received a gift bag with diapers, gift cards, baby clothes and books. There was also a drawing for two car seats and a stroller.

According to Maria and Sam, the information they have received from the classes and individual counseling has strengthened them as a family. They feel confident as parents and state they are now better able to articulate what they want and need in their relationship. These are the strengths that help young couples establish healthy relationships and healthy families.

Maria and Sam have attended FCC classes on positive discipline, home safety, car seat safety and breast feeding. When Sam's hours at work were cut back, the family received material assistance with food and clothing. FCC also assisted them with filling out and filing the food stamp application. Maria and Sam have received printed material on parenting, mental health, healthy relationships, breast feeding, child abuse prevention, domestic violence, housing, neurotoxins and available community resources. They have also received calendars to help them record their appointments and their counselor follows up with them to ensure medical and community resource appointments are kept.

Although first time parenting can be so stressful, especially for lower income couples who have fewer familial and community resources, we are confident that this couple has been strengthened as parents through the various classes and counseling sessions they have received from our organization and will succeed at being great parents. We continue to support and maintain contact with this young family and they know that whenever they need additional assistance, we are there to help.

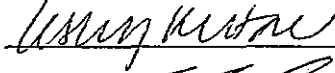

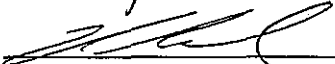

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies listed in Section IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount.

Family Care Connection is a valuable resource in its area. They specialize in providing low income families with much needed assistance, referrals, and support. They strive to educate and prepare their clients to be good parents and to break the cycle of abuse and neglect. They offer a special program for fathers who have recently been released or are about to be released from prison, in which parenting skills and relationship skills are taught. Family Care Connection is well known within the area and by local health care facilities/providers, schools, and social services agencies as an organization that provides pregnancy assistance, material assistance, and support to pregnant women in crisis pregnancies and parenting families in need.

It is shared for the limited purpose of illustrating the quality and scope of the Service Provider's work. The clients have given their consent for their story to be included in this report, and their names have been changed to protect their privacy.

To illustrate services that Children and Family Services provide to parenting clients, in addition to pregnant clients, the Executive Director shared the stories of two of their clients, Lacey and Heather:

When I met Lacy she had a 7 month old baby and was expecting a baby in March. Her family situation was not stable and she was in need of a place to call home. Her mother was not accepting of her having another child in the home. We sat down and assessed her needs and discovered that housing was her top priority. We looked into transition housing and low income housing. I referred her to an agency that assists in housing needs by offering a short term program and then housing for up to one year. The offered counseling, job referrals, and many other services related to helping the family become self sufficient. After the one year of housing, they help you transition into low income housing. My client was accepted into the program and will begin after her baby is born. This was a great sense of accomplishment for me and my client. Before she came to Children and Family Institute she was not aware of all the services that are available in her community to help her and her children.

Heather is a 17 year old birth mother in the Pathways to Parenting Program. Prior to enrolling in the program, Heather was given a ticket for truancy. She was given a mandate to attend parenting classes, pay a fine of $500 and appear in court at a later date. Pathways to Parenting was the answer to Heather's problem. Her counselor wrote a letter to the judge on her behalf, stating that she was enrolled in Pathways to Parenting, was complying with the program guidelines and was scheduled to attend an upcoming parenting class. The judge dismissed Heather's case on the condition that she continues to attend parenting classes and attend school with no absences. Heather's fine was dismissed!

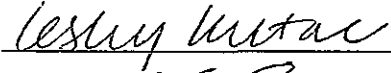

VI. Conclusion

V. Client Success Story

*Note: The following paragraphs describe a case successfully managed by the Service Provider evaluated in this report since it joined the Texas Alternative to Abortion Services Program. It is shared for the limited purpose of illustrating the quality and scope of the Service Provider's work. The client has given consent for her story to be included in this report, and her name has been changed to protect her privacy.

To illustrate services The Life Center provides to parenting clients, in addition to pregnant clients, one of the counselors shared the story of their clients, Kara and Blake:

I first met Kara when she came in for a pregnancy test. She said she was doubtful that she was pregnant but that she wanted to take a test because she was experiencing a few symptoms of pregnancy. While getting to know the client, I learned that she had grown up in a very strong goal oriented home, that she and her family had strong religious beliefs, and that having an education and good work ethic were both important and expected. Kara shared that she was attending a local college and had a year and a half left to finish her degree. She was employed and working full time while taking college courses. She said that her boyfriend, Blake, went to college out of state and lived with his mother. She had already spoken with Blake prior to the appointment and said that he was supportive of the possible pregnancy.

As we continued to talk it was evident that Kara was very afraid of potentially being pregnant. She expressed concern that Blake's mother was not supportive of their relationship. She also thought her family would be very disappointed in her and was concerned that finishing school would be in jeopardy. I reiterated that she was in a safe and confidential place and that we would do our best to give her and her family the support they needed, regardless of the test result.

After administering the pregnancy test and positive results were read, Kara sat in the counseling room with tears rolling down her face. I first reminded her that she was not alone. Then I asked how she was feeling and if she had any thoughts as to what her next steps would be. Kara said she felt shocked and that she was sad to tell her parents that not only had she been sexually active before marriage, but that she was pregnant. She said she had major concerns about how she would be able to have a baby and what Blake's mother would say but that she knew she wanted to parent her child. We discussed fetal development and prenatal care. I gave her a booklet on fetal development, and referrals for prenatal care and vitamins. Once I had answered all of Kara's questions, we scheduled another appointment with her.

The next week Kara returned for her second appointment. At this visit she was provided with additional referrals for WIC, prenatal classes, and a report of pregnancy to help with applying for benefits during pregnancy. She said she had discussed her pregnancy with her parents and that even though the current circumstances weren't what they had in mind for her future, they loved her and would be supportive of her, Blake, and their future grandchild.

Even though Kara seemed overwhelmed by the upcoming months of pregnancy, she remained strong in her desire to continue working and finish school on time. She expressed gratitude for the referrals and support she had received from The Life Center. We scheduled Kara for a third visit.

The next time I saw Kara was when she began attending our prenatal classes, which was weeks after our first meeting. It was good to see that she had become excited about the pregnancy. Throughout the next few months Kara kept us updated about what was happening in her life. She had found out she was having a boy, she told me that her parents were excited and supportive of the pregnancy, and that she was still enrolled in college and staying at pace as to her original plan. She seemed very eager to do everything she could to make things good and healthy for her and her child. She told me that she and Blake were trying to make things work but because of his mother's influence, he was not acting on his own beliefs. She said they had talked about him moving to the area before their son was born and that he had been very distraught about not physically being there for her while she was pregnant with their baby. I gave Kara referral to give to Blake for a staffing service in town that could help him located a possible job. I also provided her with fatherhood material to give to Blake as a way to encourage, motivate, and challenge him to fatherhood responsibilities. I also introduced some of the parenting and relationship classes that were available to both men and women. Before she left that evening, Kara told me that because of the classes she had already attended, she felt enabled to encourage Blake to stand up to his mother and take responsibility for his future family.

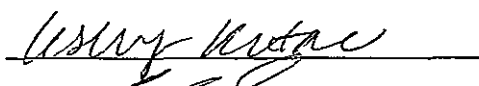

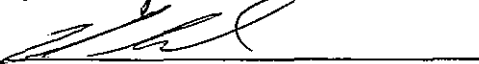

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies listed in Section IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount.

It is shared for the limited purpose of illustrating the quality and scope of the Service Provider's work. The client has given consent for her story to be included in this report, and her name has been changed to protect her privacy.

Leigh is a 20 year old college student who came to Care Net Medical Services just before Thanksgiving 2009 to find out how far along she was in her pregnancy. She had been to an abortion facility but was told she was too far along to have an abortion there. An athletic trainer at a local college referred her to Care Net because he knew about the services we offer. We were able to provide support to Leigh, including education about adoption. Leigh's main concerns were that she was a college athlete, as was the father of the baby, and that because he was of a different race, her family would not accept the baby. She felt forced to choose abortion as her only option.

After spending time with our consultants, Leigh was able to talk through her options and realize that there was hope. Leigh left undecided and knew she would have to tell her parents during the Thanksgiving holidays, while she was at home. Our nurse had been in touch with Leigh throughout the process, but was unsure of her final decision. In early Spring Leigh contacted our nurse to tell her that she had delivered a healthy baby boy and that just a few weeks before the birth she had found the "right" adoptive family. She explained that her baby boy was doing well. She communicates with the adoptive mom everyday via text messages and even though she sometimes gets emotional, she is very happy with her decision. The father of the baby flew in for the delivery and they have reconciled their relationship. He has been very supportive and also helped pick out the adoptive family. They were able to go out to dinner with the family and she said they had an instant connection and they felt like family to her. Leigh is finishing this semester at her current school and will be moving out of state soon to live with her sister and go to school there.

Leigh expressed how thankful she was for all the help she received from Care Net Medical Services. In return, we expressed our thanks to her for allowing us to be a part of her life and assisting her in her decision.

*Note: The following paragraphs describe a case successfully managed by the Service Provider evaluated in this report since it joined the Texas Alternative to Abortion Services Program. It is shared for the limited purpose of illustrating the quality and scope of the Service Provider's work. The clients have given their consent for their story to be shared, and their names have been changed to protect their privacy.

The following are excerpts from the article, An Angel to Guide Us, which was featured in the Temple Daily Telegram and was written by Tomi Lunsford. Our Lady of the Angels Maternity Shelter has obtained permission from the Temple Daily Telegram for TPCN to use these excerpts. The article illustrates the assistance that Our Lady of the Angels Maternity Shelter provides to its clients. All names from the original article have been changed in order to protect client confidentiality.

Pregnancy is new life. There should be joy and hope. But that's not the case for every expectant mother. "I was depressed, hopeless and scared," said Michelle of Temple. The month was March. "I had one baby with me, and I was eight months pregnant with another," Michelle said. "I had no friends, no family, nowhere to go." She had come to Killeen from Puerto Rico to let her son Wyatt see his father. "He was locked up, about to go to prison for a DUI," Michelle said. "After that, I went to a shelter in Copperas Cove." And that's where she learned about Our Lady of Angels Maternity Shelter in Temple, a non-profit United Way agency that provides emergency housing to pregnant women. By April she was a resident of OLAMS. "Things started to make sense there," Michelle said. "My spirit healed, and I found the courage to find a job and make it on my own." She had a job by June and a place of her own by July. Her income was steady enough by September to buy a cell phone. And her new baby, Leo, is happy. "That's what we like to see," said JaLeta Tidmore, the shelter Administrator. "The girls come in, find stability and safety, develop networks, start working on goals — and then they start to succeed at life." In the last decade, shelter staff and volunteers have helped more than 230 women work toward that goal.

Our Lady of Angels Maternity Shelter can house up to 12 pregnant women and children in its dormitory-style rooms. Two mothers room together unless there's a mom who has a large brood. "The roommate relationship is valuable," Ms. Tidmore said. "It prevents the new mom from feeling alone and it can build a powerful friendship." The shelter's two current residents know that first hand. Lisa and June say they're like sisters, even though they've known each other less than two months. They're both in their mid-20s, jobless and without family. Lisa is 3 months pregnant, and June is at 8 months. When the women arrived, their first task was to meet with a social worker, and come up with a plan to be independent in three months. The residents apply for Medicaid, food stamps and W.I.C. and follow up with the social worker everyday to see how they're doing on their paper work. Michelle is grateful because the step-by-step program she developed with her social worker led her not just to a full-time job and paycheck but also to a life filled with friends and community functions. In between paper work and job-hunting, the residents take parenting classes from the Hope Pregnancy Center, another area non-profit group that caters to pregnant women. And to help the residents in gaining employment, the shelter joins efforts with the Texas Workforce where skills are identified, and residents are sent on prospective job searches. And if a resident lacks her diploma, the shelter will help her obtain a GED.

"Residents are usually well on their way to independence at the end of their three months and we're here for them after they leave," Ms. Tidmore added. "If they need baby clothes, food or diapers, we help them as much as we can." Michelle knows. "They helped me get started in the apartment," she said. "And they still call me to make sure I'm doing OK, and I like to take the babies over to the house to visit."

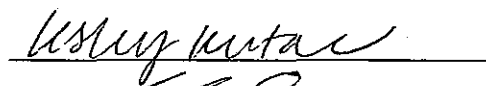

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies listed in Section IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount.

Our Lady of the Angels Maternity Shelter focuses on providing pregnancy support, education, life skills, and shelter for pregnant and/or parenting homeless women. They provide referrals, material assistance, and a variety of classes that cover life skills, nutrition, pregnancy, childbirth, relationships, anger management, child care, post partum stress, breastfeeding, abuse, stress management, and relationships.

*Note: The following paragraphs describe a case successfully managed by the Service Provider evaluated in this report since it joined the Texas Alternative to Abortion Services Program. It is shared for the limited purpose of illustrating the quality and scope of the Service Provider's work. The client has given consent for her story to be included in this report, and her name has been changed to protect her privacy.

To illustrate services that Guadalupe Home provides to pregnant clients, in addition to parenting clients, the Executive Director shared the story of one of their clients, Sally:

When Sally was a little girl, she grew up thinking that she didn't want to have children; at least not until she was out of college and had a job. Her dream was the "American dream," to find her prince charming, get married and then, maybe, bring children into the world. She wanted the "white picket fence." She wanted what she didn't have growing up. Life handed her a different plan.

At a very young age, Sally was removed from her biological mother and she lived with several foster families. She became very attached to the last foster mother she lived with and they continue to have a relationship today. Her biological mother died last year and it was her foster mother who helped her through the grieving process. In her teen years, she ran with a rough crowd and drugs became a part of her routine. This kind of lifestyle lasted for several years. She was in and out of college during this time and didn't always make good life decisions.

At age 20, Sally discovered she was pregnant and her life immediately changed. She said she stopped using the illegal drugs because she knew it could affect the baby. The boyfriend that she thought she could depend on, was now gone because he said he "wasn't ready to be a dad." When she moved into the Guadalupe Home she wasn't sure how she could continue to go to school and get ready for a baby.

Sally struggles with mental health issues and as her mood varied, she often struggled with her classes and making positive choices. It helped her to be around other mothers and as she watched them, she started learning how to better cope with everyday life struggles.

She loved the fact that she had her own room that she could decorate and get ready for her baby's birth. She decided on the name, Ronny, months before he was due and always referred to him when she discussed her life and plans for the future. During the time she lived at the Home she became a senior resident where she earned the privilege of helping to instruct other residents on the rules and chores to run the home. She enjoyed this responsibility and learned ways to speak to others that was respectful and helpful.

When Baby Ronny was born, Sally was so happy. She says that the skills that she learned during her childbirth education class helped her during labor, while the parenting education she received helped her to get off to a good start. She was very proud of her parenting skills and was eager to teach other new moms how to feed and soothe their fussy baby.

Recently Sally and Ronny moved into a small apartment close to her sister. She got a part-time job at a local bank and she can continue to go to school part-time. She also found a daycare close to the apartment. Sally says that she really liked living at the Guadalupe Home and hopes that other young homeless mothers who live here will take advantage of the programs offered. Sally says her focus completely changed when she found out she was going to have a baby and it is not just about her anymore. She struggles with her mental illness but doesn't let it define who she is. She knows she is strong and will make mistakes, but the experiences she had and benefited from during the time she lived at the Home will forever be with her. She also knows that she has friends here and that the staff will always be available to help her when she needs help or just needs someone to talk to.

Sally is a devoted and loving mother to her son. The way Ronny looks at her, you can tell that the love is mutual!

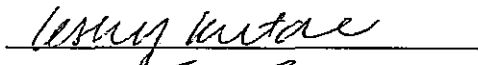

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies listed in Section IV and Section III of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount.

Guadalupe Home is a maternity residence for homeless, pregnant women. Residents at the home are taught to become responsible, self-sufficient, loving mothers and are educated on important life skills that help them transition to independent living. V. Client Success Story

*Note: The following paragraphs describe a case successfully managed by the Service Provider evaluated in this report since it joined the Texas Alternative to Abortion Services Program. It is shared for the limited purpose of illustrating the quality and scope of the Service Provider's work. The client has given consent for her story to be included in this report, and her name has been changed to protect her privacy.

To illustrate services that San Antonio Birth Doula's provide to parenting clients, in addition to pregnant clients, the Executive Director shared the story of one of their clients, Alexis:

Alexis had been a previous San Antonio Birth Doula's client in June of 2008 when she gave birth to her son, Freddie. After his birth, she kept in touch off and on with her doula and would send pictures of Freddie. She had her own apartment and a good paying job and was taking care of herself and her baby along with the help of her boyfriend. In July 2009, Alexis found out that she was pregnant again and shortly after that, her boyfriend was put in jail. Alexis did not have a very solid family support system and felt she would not be able to take care of another baby on her own. She considered terminating her pregnancy. The doula heard about Alexis' new pregnancy through a friend of hers who was also an SABD client. The doula contacted her as soon as possible and learned that she had had four previous cesarean section births and she was afraid that her uterus would rupture and she would die if she got pregnant again. It was clear that she was terrified about having another baby and was seriously considering abortion.

The doula spent a lot of time on the phone with Alexis and encouraged her to schedule an appointment with her doctor just to confirm that she was actually pregnant. In preparation for her first prenatal appointment the doula asked her to put together a list of questions for the doctor to ensure that she would get the information she needed and to find out if she would be able to safely carry another baby. At the appointment, Alexis' doctor gave her all of the information she needed to minimize this fear but as she left her appointment she did tell her doctor that she was still not sure that she would continue her pregnancy. She was very afraid that she would not be able to take care of another baby financially and emotionally.

During another conversation with Alexis, she spoke about how much a new car seat would cost and the doula gave her a phone number of an organization that gave out brand new car seats for taking a safety class. With other fears of costly items for the baby, she was given additional referrals to organizations that could help her. As Alexis realized the amount of services that were available to her and her children, she started to become more confident that she might actually be able to take care of her new baby.

When the doula accompanied Alexis to another prenatal visit with her doctor, she asked the same questions from her previous visit and felt more reassured that she could do this and she decided that she wanted to keep her baby. During subsequent visits with her doula, Alexis' self esteem improved. She became more confident and started building good friendships and was able to reconnect with her family. She now had lots of support.

Alexis gave birth to Billy in March of 2010 and was very happy with her decision to have this baby. She will be going back to work soon and is planning to start taking classes during the summer to become a teacher.

Alexis says that if it had not been for the constant source of support and encouragement from her doula, she might have made a very tragic decision. She said that not only did the doula help her realize her fears and help her find ways to overcome them, her doula also helped her to become the mother she wants to be to her children.

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies noted in Section IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount. The Service Provider completed corrective action for the deficiency listed in Section I of this report by addressing and rectifying it prior to the date of this report.

The San Antonio Birth Doulas are heavily focused on providing pregnancy assistance, post partum support, education, and counseling to pregnant women in need. Their services are mainly delivered where their clients are located, to better assist those that may have transportation difficulty or other limitations. One of their programs, called Project Post Partum, provides post partum visits to the new mother's home. The doula aids her in organizing her schedule and becoming acclimated to her new role as a mom. Doulas discuss healthy habits and assist the mother in bonding with the new baby. Post partum depression is assessed by the doula and if needed, appropriate resources are utilized to protect both the mother and her baby.

The clients have given their consent for their story to be included in this report, and their names have been changed to protect their privacy.

To illustrate services Pregnancy Resources of Abilene provides to parenting clients, in addition to pregnant clients, the Executive Director shared the story of their clients, Brittany and Adam:

Brittany is 17 with a 4 month old son. She is not in school and struggles with a learning disability. Her living situation has never been stable and she moves often. She currently lives with her 21 year old sister and occasionally with her best friend from school or her mom. She is in a relationship with her baby's father, who attends a local high school. She came in for a pregnancy test, which yielded a positive result. She stated that she would need to have an abortion as she would not be able to parent another child. I explained her option to her and she said she had never thought about adoption but was not sure her boyfriend or friends would like the idea of her being pregnant at all. She felt sure that they would all encourage her to have an abortion. I asked if it would be helpful for me to meet with her boyfriend to explain their options to him. She gratefully accepted.

The next day she came in with her boyfriend, Adam, and her best friend's mom, Barbara. Barbara explained that she has been Brittany's mentor since Brittany was in the 4th grade and has supported and helped Brittany with her 4 month old son. As I began to ask Brittany and Adam about their parenting, they expressed how difficult it is. They explained that they have no emotional or financial support from either family. In fact, the families are against Brittany and Adam seeing each other at all, despite the baby they are raising. We talked for a while longer about their responsibilities and how they felt about their options. At the end of our session Brittany and Adam both said that they wanted to choose adoption for this pregnancy.

As they were leaving, Barbara turned to me and said that just one week ago she was at the hospital with another one of her daughter's friends. The girl had also experience d teenage pregnancy and had placed her baby for adoption. She admitted that she had never really thought about adoption, much less witnessed, but that she thought it was an amazing option for the situation. Barbara mentioned the girl's name and as soon as she said it, I realized that I knew the young lady she was referring to. She was our client 7 months ago and chose adoption in her 8th month of pregnancy.

Adam and Brittany came in for their ultrasound the next day and had already contacted the adoption agency and were moving ahead with their plans.

In the words of the client:

"When I thought I might be pregnant I immediately went to the store and purchased a pregnancy test. I was so relieved when I saw that the result was negative. However, after a few weeks it became apparent that the test could have been wrong. My friend suggested that I go to the Pregnancy Care Center for a test and information.

Thinking about going to the center made me envision long lines and long periods of waiting but when I arrived at the center I found that this was not the case. I was met at the reception window with a smile and was soon invited back to speak with my counselor. She provided me with a pregnancy test and as I had feared, its result was positive. I burst into tears as I thought about the choices I had made to put myself in this situation. I was even more upset because the father of my baby is not someone I see myself having a relationship with. Luckily my counselor was there to hold my hand, support me by telling me that I was strong enough to get through this, and educate me about resources to help me during my pregnancy. After we talked for a while longer, I felt refreshed and able to make plans for the future.

I am so grateful for everyone at the Pregnancy Care Center for making their services available and possible to young women, like myself. They supported me and helped me get through a very difficult time in my life."

The Executive Director shared the story of one of their clients:

One of our clients participated in our prenatal class, "Your Unborn Baby's Secret World." The purpose of this lesson was to help the mother be more aware of what her baby was doing inside the womb. Once the class ended, the mothers were asked to keep a journal of what they experienced with her baby for the next 6 days. One of the class participants explains her experience:

"Day 1: Since taking the class and watching the tape, I'm much more attentive to the baby. I rub my belly and talk with the baby almost anytime I'm not occupied with doing something. I think the baby likes that.

Day 2: The baby was in a position where my side was hurting. I rubbed my belly and told my baby, 'you're hurting mommy' and a few moments later, my side stopped hurting.

Day 3: I can tell my baby likes when I eat sweets. I don't get indigestion.

Day 4: Today the baby moved around a lot. It felt like my sweetie was fluttering and trying to get comfortable.

Day 5: I listened to music most of the day and sang along with the songs I knew. I think the baby liked that.

Day 6: The baby's dad and I were together today. I think the baby recognized dad and moved a little while he rubbed my stomach and held his head to the baby so he could listen what was going on."

V. Client Success Story

*Note: The following paragraphs describe a case successfully managed by the Service Provider evaluated in this report since it joined the Texas Alternative to Abortion Services Program. It is shared for the limited purpose of illustrating the quality and scope of the Service Provider's work. The client has given consent for her story to be included in this report, and her name has been changed to protect her privacy.

To illustrate the services that Living Alternatives provides to pregnant and parenting clients, in addition to parenting clients, the Executive Director shared the story of Amanda:

Amanda had just moved to the area from out of state in late 2009. She was 16 years old and pregnant. The father is a boy she knew before her move. Her mother, Jill, called Living Alternatives of Jacksonville and asked if Amanda could come in for an appointment. Jill is a single mother that commutes to another town everyday and works long hours. We agreed that Amanda could have the school bus drop her off at our office after school the next day so that she and I could talk about her situation until her mom could come pick her up.

When she arrived, Amanda tried to act tough but I could tell she was tired and scared while she told me her story. Her counselor at school had thankfully given Amanda our information and phone number. The father of the baby didn't want anything to do with her now that she was pregnant and would not claim the twins she was carrying. Not only was this young girl and her mom new to the area and having financial difficulties, but now here would be two little ones to take care of.

Before her move, Amanda had hung out with some bad influences and had gotten into some legal problems. She had also experimented with drugs and alcohol and had little respect for adults. She wasn't concerned about her eating habits or the benefits of taking her prenatal vitamins every day. When we discussed the family finances she stated that she didn't think finances had anything to do with babies. We discussed the benefits of vitamins during pregnancy and made a list of items that are necessary when parenting a newborn, such as diapers, wipes, shampoo, thermometers, bottles ointments, and over the counter medications that are not available through food stamps or WIC.

In the following months since Amanda's first visit, I noticed a positive change in her behavior. She found out that she was having twin boys. She is all smiles and is determined to finish high school. She will have to take two classes the first half of next year in order to graduate but says she is ready to take on the challenge. She also obtained information on State funded child care services to help with the cost of child care while she's finishing school.

She has participated in all of our counseling sessions, and we've provided her with maternity clothes for her pregnancy and have started gathering baby clothes for once the twins arrive. We've also assisted her in obtaining bigger baby items, such as baby beds and infant carriers. Each year we are able to gift dedicated moms with a new dresser filled with new baby items. Amanda was one of our dedicated moms this year.

Amanda is due to give birth in a few weeks and is having a baby shower soon. She invited the staff of Living Alternatives of Jacksonville and we have a basket full of baby clothes, shampoo, nail clippers, diapers, mittens, a baby bottle brush, and several packages of diaper disposal bags.

Living Alternatives of Jacksonville would not have been able to move into our new facility this past year or provide these services to Amanda and other clients like her if not for the funding through the Texas Alternative to Abortion Services Program and TPCN. Though our local donors support our mission and want to help out, funding was always scarce and because of this, our hours and services were very limited. There is no other organization in this area that provides the wide range of services that we do free of charge.

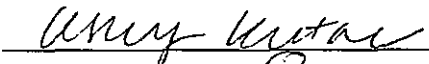

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies noted in Section IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount.

Living Alternatives of Jacksonville is a much needed resource in the small community of Jacksonville. It is well known throughout the area and local schools as a resource for providing education, pregnancy support, and material assistance to pregnant women in need. They also provide clients with a wide variety of educational programs, covering topics that include pregnancy, parenting skills, nutrition, car seat safety, and budgeting skills.

To illustrate services Pregnancy Help Center of Lufkin provides to parenting and pregnant clients, one of the social workers shared the story of Olivia:

When Olivia first came into our office, she was pregnant and under a great deal of pressure from her mother to consider abortion. Olivia had made many mistakes in her past, including crack use and prison time. As a result these poor decisions, Olivia's mother was raising Olivia's 8 year old child and her mother was adamant about not being responsible for another grandchild.

Olivia had been drug free for several years but was still attempting to root out some unhealthy relationships that were a product of her old lifestyle. She felt that abortion might be the only way to completely move forward with her life and leave her past behind. Our nurse, Olivia, and Olivia's mother discussed her situation and assessed her needs for the pregnancy. It became clear that Olivia really didn't want an abortion and that she was leaning heavily toward continuing with the pregnancy and then parenting. For the weeks and months following the initial appointment, Olivia and our nurse remained in close contact. Our nurse was there to support and encourage Olivia as often as she needed. Olivia soon enrolled in the Learn to Earn Parenting Education Program, where she found parenting information, support, and mentoring.

Olivia's baby was born near the end of May and was named after the biological father, whom Olivia is engaged to. She actively participates in the Learn to Earn

Program and both Olivia and the new baby are happy, healthy, and on the road to positive choices.

Olivia's mother, who was initially against continuing with the pregnancy, helped in the delivery room when the baby was born. Today, she showers her new grandbaby with constant love and even claims, "He has toes JUST like mine."

VI. Conclusion

To illustrate services Grace House Ministries, The Options Clinic provides to parenting and pregnant clients, the Executive Director shared the story of Aimee:

Six years ago, Aimee contacted Grace House Pregnancy Center needing a verification of pregnancy. She was not married but knew that it was her responsibility to take care of herself. With no support, financial or emotional, she needed to get approved for Medicaid assistance. We only saw Aimee after she had her baby, when she needed assistance with diapers and formula.

Several months ago, Aimee returned to Grace House. She was pregnant again and needed help. This time she brought her boyfriend, who also needed some financial and emotional support. And this time was that we had a variety of amazing services to offer both of them, such as educational classes, mentoring, and other support services. Through our Empowered Life education program, Aimee and her boyfriend have been able to earn credits that they spend at our materials resource program, Baby Grace. They have attended enough classes to purchase the needed items for their new baby. They completed an extensive application for our "Beds for Babies" program, and were approved to receive a new baby bed.

Through encouragement and hard work, Aimee has been motivated to attend the community college and is working toward her LVN license. Both she and her boyfriend believe in hard work and making a better life for their child.

When asked, "How has our program affected your life," Aimee answered, "We feel loved, supported, appreciated, and most of all, you listened." They both want to continue their relationship with our ministry because of the support and encouragement. They enjoy the fellowship with other clients and feel that class is a great time of sharing.

We also asked Aimee if the services she has received at Grace House would change the way she would parent. She answered, "Yes, and I know if I have a struggle I could call anyone here and you would help me. You are serving a high needs group of people and we all feel we can make it with your help. Choosing life and making a decision to parent is really hard to think about, but you have given me and my boyfriend all that we need to make it happen. Thank you for investing in our life, our baby's life, and our future."

*Note: The following paragraphs describe a case successfully managed by the Service Provider evaluated in this report since it joined the Texas Alternative to Abortion Services Program. It is shared for the limited purpose of illustrating the quality and scope of the Service Provider's work. The client has given her consent for her story to be included in this report, and her name has been changed to protect her privacy.

To illustrate services The Gladney Center for Adoption provides, one of the social workers shared the story of one of their clients, Catherine:

Catherine first contacted The Gladney Center in early January. She was faced with an unplanned pregnancy and was interested in the option of adoption.

Catherine met with a counselor at The Gladney Center and was informed of her options within adoption and was also counseled regarding the option of parenting. Upon considering her options and evaluating her circumstances, Catherine decided to move forward with an adoption plan for her baby, who was due five months later.

Catherine first received counseling through Gladney's Community Service Program. However, Catherine's family circumstances worsened as the pregnancy progressed. Catherine and her two year old daughter were kicked out of her grandmother's house, where they were living. Catherine had nowhere to live and no transportation as her family refused to assist her in anyway. Faced with the fear of moving to a shelter, Catherine decided that Gladney's residential program was the best option for her at the time. Catherine arranged for her daughter to temporarily live with her father for the remainder of Catherine's pregnancy. In addition, Catherine discovered through Gladney's contract doctor that she had serious health issues, which meant that she needed to see a high risk doctor.

In the dorm at Gladney, Catherine was immediately surrounded by supporting staff and other women also planning adoption. Catherine began attending our "Loving Decisions" class. In this class Catherine was able to openly discuss her thoughts, feelings, and concerns about adoption. Throughout the class she was able to increase her own self-awareness and better understand the grieving process that occurs when placing a child for adoption. Catherine was able to become better prepared for the emotional journey that lies ahead of her. She was equipped with the knowledge of effective and healthy ways to cope after she places her child and moves forward with life. Through the encouragement and support of the other women in this class facing similar situations she was able to secure a network of support that will be available long after she leaves Gladney. She also was able to attend our Childbirth classes taught by a local nurse. Catherine had a place to stay, food to eat, excellent prenatal care, transportation to her appointments, support in her decision for life and adoption, and she was able to receive additional counseling for non-adoption related issues with a local counselor.

Another incredible service offered which Catherine took full advantage of is Gladney's "Next Steps" program. Within the program Catherine was able to create a life plan for herself after her adoption plan is complete. Catherine regularly received help to create a resume, search for local jobs, and to take control of her financial debt. She will now have a plan to manage and pay off her debt, as well as learn to handle her finances in a whole new way. She will also have a place to live, a job to provide for their family needs, and a way for her self confidence to grow. Catherine truly has embraced this opportunity to take steps to a brighter future, for herself and her daughter.

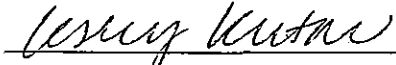

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies listed in Section IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount.

The Gladney Center for Adoption is a nationally known facilitator of adoptions and has been in operation for 127 years. They have a Community Services program in which they go to the client's home and counsel them there, and they have a maternity home on their large campus. The center focuses on the importance of education and provides referrals to local vocational programs. They also encourage their residents to maintain a healthy lifestyle by offering Pilates, Hip Hop dance, and other exercise programs onsite. Often the residents are treated to fun activities outside of the center, such as trips to Six Flags or Rangers' baseball games.

In the words of the Executive Director:

One afternoon, I received a call from a young woman named Sara who was interested in abortion. I told her we did not perform or refer for abortions but I would love to visit with her about her other options. She came into the office and received counseling and education.

After our conversation, she was still considering an abortion. She did not anticipate any help from the father of the baby. Sara was in her early 20's and lived with her parents. She was concerned about disappointing them and still had not told them she was pregnant.

We did not hear from Sara for another 6 weeks. Then, she called the office and wanted to come in for an appointment. I was concerned that she had an abortion and wanted to talk about it. I had reassured her in the beginning that we would be there for her no matter what she decided.

When she arrived, her mother was with her. I didn't know if she had told her mother about the pregnancy or her intentions to have an abortion. After a long silence, her mother said "well we're having a baby!" I was so relieved about her decision. She made a choice that she could be proud of in the future.

During her pregnancy, she attended sessions to help her understand what to expect during her pregnancy, how to care for a newborn, and the importance of the first few years in the development of her child. She was able to earn clothing, diapers, and a baby bed through our incentive program.

Her son was born several months later, and she went to work for the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. She is a wonderful mom and is doing great caring for her son.

V. Corrective Actions Taken:

Fire Extinguishers have been inspected and spiritual materials were labeled and separated from non-spiritual materials. The Client Grievance Policy was posted in the lobby with forms available to all clients. A plan of action was provided to serve disabled clients where areas of the facility are not handicapped accessible.

My name is Nikki and I'm twenty-two years old. Before I started my sophomore year I found out I was pregnant. I attempted to stay in school. As I got further in my pregnancy I could not afford to purchase new clothes to fit my blooming body. The attention my pregnancy caused made me uncomfortable and embarrassed me. My spring semester was done at home with a tutor. I completed my sophomore year and ended my education at the age of 17.

As a single mother I was struggling with finding patience when dealing with my strong willed daughter. I found out about The Open Door's programs through my sister. I started attending parenting classes on July 23, 2009. This continuous class has helped me to come closer and build a closer relationship with my girls. I have attended many different classes: parenting, sexual integrity, cooking, and career development classes. These programs have helped me become independent and confident as a mother. I am able to provide for my family financially and emotionally. The Open Door has given me the motivation and will to become the mother I wanted to be.

Before going to The Open Door, I attempted to get my GED several times for three years. In January 2010, I enrolled in the GED Program at The Open Door. After receiving my diploma on April 28, 2010 and completing a career development class I was hired at our local Assisted Living Facility as a Caregiver. I intend to continue my education and become a Registered Nurse.

V. Corrective Actions Taken:

"No Smoking" and "Exit" signs have been posted. Spiritual materials were labeled and separated from non-spiritual materials. The Non-Discrimination Policy was added to the Client Intake forms. Fire Extinguishers were installed.

V. Client Success Story

*Note: The following paragraphs describe a case successfully managed by the Service Provider evaluated in this report since it joined the Texas Alternative to Abortion Services Program. It is shared for the limited purpose of illustrating the quality and scope of the Service Provider's work. The client has given her consent for her story to be included in this report, and her name has been changed to protect her privacy.

To illustrate services A Woman's Haven provides to pregnant clients, the Executive Director shared the story of their client, Pam:

Pam, a high school student, was accompanied by her mother and father the first time she visited A Woman's Haven. She had recently found out she was pregnant and while she wanted to parent her baby, her parents were pressuring her to abort.

Pam shared that she was four weeks pregnant. Her parents were extremely upset, disappointed, and fearful. According to her dad, Pam was "still a child and didn't know anything about life or how to care for a baby." When the mentor offered guidance and information about the center and ways in which Pam could be helped, her father made it very clear that he did not like the idea of his daughter receiving help from anywhere. He wanted nothing to do with Pam and told her that "she made her bed and now she had to lay in it." He admitted, however, how much he loved her and that to him, she was his "baby."

The mentor explained what Pam's alternatives were, in the event she chose to parent rather than abort, and also provided education about fetal development. A Woman's Right to Know was provided to the family.

Pam had given permission for follow up, but subsequent phone calls to her were unanswered. The mentor was about to close the file when she decided to make one more call. To her surprise, Pam's father answered the call. His voice was filled with such love and excitement as he talked about his daughter and new grandson, who was born six weeks prematurely. He shared that the family thought the baby looked just like him except with blond hair. He also told the mentor how proud he was of both his daughter and his new grandson. Before the conversation ended, Pam's father thanked the mentor for all the support they received at the initial meeting and told her how much he learned during that visit. He also said that his family was so lucky to have this "little guy."

Not long after the mentor hung up the phone, Pam called. She talked about the tremendous change in her parents' attitude and the positive atmosphere that now surrounded her family. She said that even though she had missed a lot of classes, she was able to make them up and continue with her scheduled graduation year. Upon completion of high school, she plans to go to college and pursue a career in nursing.

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies listed in Section IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount.

The client has given her consent for her story to be included in this report, and the names have been omitted or changed to protect her privacy.

To illustrate services Pregnancy Help Center of Williamson County provides to pregnant clients, the Executive Director shared the story of one of their clients:

She wasn't the typical client at our pregnancy center. Her two children were about to graduate from high school; she was wrapping up the teen years; the late nights, the challenges.

She was 36 and this was the last thing she thought she would face at this point in her life. Single and pregnant, abortion was an option. After all, she had been down that road before many years ago. We talked to her about her past abortion, and how we could help her with her current pregnancy.

Feeling comfortable with us, with her situation, she began coming to our life skill classes and earning points for material assistance. Soon she was collecting diapers, wipes, blankets and finally, a new crib.

Once tentative and frightened, she began to show confidence about her decision to parent. She worked through some issues she had from her previous abortion and began to prepare for the new life growing inside of her. It wasn't long before her boyfriend began to accompany her to classes. He too was getting ready to be a dad.

Soon, they started stopping by the center just to visit. They sat on the sofa in our lobby and told us all about their plans, their hopes, and even how they were going to decorate their nursery.

When James was born, the proud parents often brought him to visit several times a month. Our staff and volunteers took turns holding this beautiful baby boy. We watched him as he reached his milestones, smiling, pulling, and crawling – all over our office.

Nineteen months after his mom's first visit to our center and the positive pregnancy test, we attended James' first birthday party at the park. He is a happy, healthy baby who has two very proud parents.

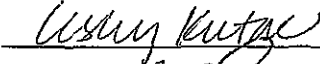

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies listed in Sections III and IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount.

Pregnancy Help Center of Williamson County is heavily focused on providing pregnancy assistance, education, and counseling to pregnant women in need. They provide a variety of on site classes such as life skills, pregnancy, parenting education, nutrition, anger management, child care, how to stop smoking, and breast feeding. They also provide material assistance to help parents with diapers, wipes, baby clothes, baby care items, and even baby cribs.

To illustrate services Austin LifeCare provides to parenting clients, in addition to pregnant clients, the Executive Director shared the story of one of their clients, Sally:

Sally originally came to Austin LifeCare for a pregnancy test. During her initial intake counseling, Sally revealed that she had been addicted to drugs. As a result, her first child had been taken into the custody of Child Protective Services. Sally was no longer on drugs and was determined to provide and care for her unborn child.

Sally became an active participant in the Earn While You Learn program. This incentive program allows clients to take individual classes on numerous topics, including Breast Feeding Basics, A Look at Adoption, Apartment Renting, and many more. Upon completion, clients receive "Baby Bucks" to purchase baby items in our store.

While learning how to parent her child, Sally has been able to get important items for her baby, including diapers and clothing. Sally also participated in Austin LifeCare's Square One program, a support group for first time moms. Square One matched Sally with seasoned moms, who were able to answer questions and share insights from their own experiences as first time moms.

Through Sally's participation in the programs Austin LifeCare offers, we have been able to witness her growth as an individual and parent. We're confident that Sally will continue to benefit from our programs as her family grows.

The client has given their consent for their story to be included in this report, and their name has been omitted to protect their privacy.

The following client shares her story and how with help from The Source for Women, she overcame adversity and became a self sufficient, loving mom:

The best way I can describe abortion is that it's a day or two procedure that you live with for the rest of your life. I was 15 and 16 when I had my two abortions. I thought about them every single day and felt like they left a huge void in my life. I tried filling that void with shopping and pets. I bought a dog, a hamster, a cat, and a bird; nothing helped. I still felt the void and I still had no peace.

I had my first child 6 years after the first abortion. It was the first pregnancy that I didn't feel the pressure to abort and The Source for Women played a big role in that. They have been very helpful and so supportive, which was a big part of the reason I felt I could carry my baby to term.

I have learned so much from each class at The Source. Baby care, Childbirth, Parenting and Nutrition are my favorite classes. I learned more about my health from their classes than from my high school health class! The Parenting class keeps me sane by showing me how to relieve and deal with stressful situations. It's also taught me how to discipline my ten month old baby without spanking. The classes teach me to be a better mom and I even enjoy myself while learning to do so.

Thanks to The Source, I have also met some life long friends. I've met other moms just like me and I wouldn't know them if it wasn't for the great classes and the staff here at The Source. The clothing, toys, and baby supplies that I receive from them really helps me out.

The Source for Women is life-changing and full of opportunities. I'm extremely grateful for their programs. They've supported me and helped me out in so many ways. The Source is a great place!

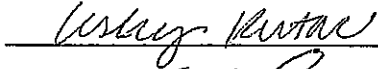

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies listed in Section IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount. The Service Provider completed corrective action for the deficiency listed in Section II of this report by addressing and rectifying it prior to the date of this report.

The Source for Women of Houston is focused on providing pregnancy assistance, education, counseling and material assistance to pregnant and parenting women in need. The Source offers many classes that cover a variety of topics, such as decision making skills, healthy relationships, breastfeeding, life skills, child care, pregnancy, parenting, nutrition, budgeting skills, and Lamaze. They also offer assistance to clients for filling out Medicaid forms. They are well known throughout the Houston area as a valuable resource for women experiencing challenging pregnancy and parenting situations.

The client has given their consent for their story to be included in this report, and all names have been changed to protect their privacy.

To illustrate services Aggieland Pregnancy Outreach provides to pregnant clients, in addition to parenting clients, the Executive Director shared the story of their client, Mitch:

Mitch, a 24 year old male, was a walk-in client to Aggieland Pregnancy Outreach in early 2010. He said that his former girlfriend was pregnant and he needed to learn how to be a dad. He said the mother of the unborn child had many mental health issues and was very irresponsible. Her doctor told them about Aggieland Pregnancy Outreach and while she chose not to come for help, Mitch did. He believed it would be best if he raised the child instead of the mother because he thought she would just move on once the baby was born. His problem, however, was that he said had no idea what it would take to be a dad. He just knew he was supposed to raise this child.

Mitch's parents were both busy professionals that he said didn't show him much love. He was closer to his father, but the relationship was strained. He couldn't count on his parents for emotional support. He thought they might help out financially, but they certainly were not available to help him be a dad. Finances were one of Mitch's biggest concerns. He worked only seasonally in the concession business and was barely getting by. He shared an apartment with the mother of the child and a couple of other roommates, one of which also had a newborn child.

Mitch came faithfully to Aggieland Pregnancy Outreach, Inc every week. I coached him on the responsibilities of fatherhood and gave him books to read on child rearing as he began his journey into fatherhood. He was looking forward to the challenge of being a dad, but because he had not experienced a close and loving relationship with his parents, he didn't even think about the importance of establishing an emotional commitment to his child. From his experience, being a supportive dad meant simply protecting his son and providing for his basic needs. Emotional support and bonding had not even crossed his mind. After several weeks, the barriers slowly came down and Mitch began see the hurt and pain he carried due to the lack of love he received from his own parents. He slowly began to reveal a different side to himself, different than the aloof coolness he portrayed for many weeks.

After several weeks, our agency worked with the biological mother who was a very disturbed young woman with a severe bipolar disorder. We also worked with Mitch's friend Melanie, who in the absence of the biological mother was preparing to help Mitch with the baby. A beautiful baby boy, Aaron, was born in late March. The mother was hospitalized for 5 days after the birth due to her emotional state. CPS put Mitch in charge of the baby and only allowed supervised visits for the mother. Melanie continued to be a supportive friend to Mitch and became a positive caregiver for Aaron while Mitch was at work.

Mitch became an involved dad from the very beginning. All of the barriers he had built up from his own childhood were quickly dissolved by his love for Aaron. They bonded quickly and it was a joy to witness Mitch holding the baby, playing with him, talking to him, feeding and changing him, and just seeing how much he loved his son. He had become a responsible father and was completely focused on Aaron's well being.

Aggieland Pregnancy Outreach was able to provide the emotional support and counseling Mitch needed, in addition to the material items needed, such as a car seat, diapers and formula. Mitch is pursuing total custody of Aaron and has moved into an apartment without the extra roommates. He also obtained fulltime employment so that he could better meet the needs of his son. We continue to support and encourage him in his journey. Aaron is the ultimate winner in this story because he has a father who loves and cares for him deeply.

Because of Texas Pregnancy Care Network and the Texas Alternative to Abortion Services Program, we were better equipped with the resources needed to assist and guide Mitch as he accepted the responsibilities of fatherhood. As a result, Aaron will grow up in a stable environment and will not require government assistance to meet his needs for housing, food, or medical care. Also, as a Licensed Master Social Worker, I strongly feel that this child's chances of suffering trauma associated with abuse or neglect have been drastically reduced thanks to the support and education his young father has received.

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies listed in Section IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount.

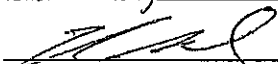

Aggieland Pregnancy Outreach (APO) is a licensed adoption agency that in addition to adoption services, also offers assistance to women experiencing challenging pregnancy and parenting situations. The "Mama Club" is a program created by APO that provides education to at risk teen mothers. The young moms gather with peers who are experiencing the same kind of situations. The club meets once a week throughout the school year. Babysitting and dinner are provided free of charge, as the young mothers interact with and learn from one another. In the near future APO hopes to partner with Early Head Start to provide a play therapy class for mothers and their young children.

APO also provides adoption planning and support groups for mothers that are either in the process of their adoption plan or have already placed for adoption.

APO is a valuable resource that provides options and assistance to women in the Brazos county area that are experiencing challenging pregnancy and parenting situations.

The following client shares his experience with Marywood Children and Family Services:

Marywood's Lifeline program is just as its name suggests, a life line. This program has helped my wife and I more than words or this letter can describe. Little did I know when we were meeting our Lifeline counselor, we were meeting an angel on earth.

She has given us everything from needed clothing for our daughter to valuable guidance and information on how to properly care for and raise our little girl.

When my wife and I found out that she was pregnant we were both happy but also very worried. We were happy because we wanted a family. In fact, before the pregnancy we weren't sure that my wife could even become pregnant. However, we were also very worried because my wife didn't have insurance and we couldn't afford to get her insured. Our Lifeline counselor helped us apply for and receive Medicaid and WIC, which relieved so much stress for both of us. She also helped us find clothing for our new baby. We are on a fixed income and paying for insurance and new clothes were major concerns for us. Lifeline has helped us find the essentials we needed so that my daughter's entrance into this world was as stress free as possible.

We were so lucky to have the guidance and care of our counselor. She didn't know us and had no obligation to help us with such kindness, but she did. She has the biggest heart of any person that I have ever met and she made us feel like her family. We often discussed being nervous about our new responsibilities as parents and how to be the best parents we could be. She was so genuine and so sincere when asking how we were doing, how we felt, or how she could help us.

Our counselor also taught us about how to care for our new baby once we brought her home. This was an enormous help since my wife and I are first time parents.

I don't want to think about where we would be without the Lifeline program or our amazing counselor. As my wife says, we'd probably be "lost and confused." They have been an immense help to us and I thank them from the bottom of my heart.

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies listed in Section IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount.

V. Client Success Story

*Note: The following paragraphs describe a case successfully managed by the Service Provider evaluated in this report since it joined the Texas Alternative to Abortion Services Program. It is shared for the limited purpose of illustrating the quality and scope of the Service Provider's work. The client has given consent for her story to be included in this report, and her name has been changed to protect her privacy.

Leigh is a 20 year old college student who came to Care Net Medical Services just before Thanksgiving 2009 to find out how far along she was in her pregnancy. She had been to an abortion facility but was told she was too far along to have an abortion there. An athletic trainer at a local college referred her to Care Net because he knew about the services we offer. We were able to provide support to Leigh, including education about adoption. Leigh's main concerns were that she was a college athlete, as was the father of the baby, and that because he was of a different race, her family would not accept the baby. She felt forced to choose abortion as her only option.

After spending time with our consultants, Leigh was able to talk through her options and realize that there was hope. Leigh left undecided and knew she would have to tell her parents during the Thanksgiving holidays, while she was at home. Our nurse had been in touch with Leigh throughout the process, but was unsure of her final decision. In early Spring Leigh contacted our nurse to tell her that she had delivered a healthy baby boy and that just a few weeks before the birth she had found the "right" adoptive family. She explained that her baby boy was doing well. She communicates with the adoptive mom everyday via text messages and even though she sometimes gets emotional, she is very happy with her decision. The father of the baby flew in for the delivery and they have reconciled their relationship. He has been very supportive and also helped pick out the adoptive family. They were able to go out to dinner with the family and she said they had an instant connection and they felt like family to her. Leigh is finishing this semester at her current school and will be moving out of state soon to live with her sister and go to school there.

Leigh expressed how thankful she was for all the help she received from Care Net Medical Services. In return, we expressed our thanks to her for allowing us to be a part of her life and assisting her in her decision.

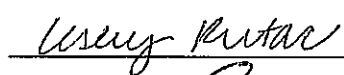

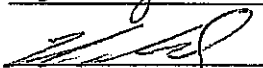

VI. Conclusion

The corrective action for deficiencies listed in Section III and Section IV of this report resulted in the deduction of the reimbursed amount. The Service Provider completed the corrective action for the deficiency listed in Section I of this report by addressing and rectifying it prior to the date of this report.

I was a young mom at the age of 16. It was really hard being so young and having to raise a baby in high school. I dropped out of high school and found myself pregnant again. I did not know what to do so I started to seek help and was directed to the Waller Pregnancy Care Center. They have helped me a lot by talking with me about how important my daughter's life was and my unborn baby. They kept in contact with me and I began taking parenting classes. This helped me to earn baby items such as diapers, clothes, formula, and even a new baby stroller set with car seat. I attended the group activities the center would have for young families like mine. They had educational baby showers, fun day barbecues, and yard sales. The center was so friendly and I was free to share my personal problems. The Waller Pregnancy Care Center encouraged me to finish high school and continue my education to become a Medical Assistant. I hope to continue studying nursing and I am grateful for their trust and the opportunity they gave me.

V. Corrective Actions Taken:

A "No Smoking" sign has been posted. Fire Extinguishers have been inspected and spiritual materials have been labeled and are separated from non-spiritual materials. Material Safety Data Sheets have been maintained and are accessible.

I am a single 39 year-old African American woman. In 2003, I became angry with myself, disappointed and scared when I discovered that I was pregnant. I lost my job because I was required to stay on complete bed-rest during the last trimester of my pregnancy. I had no family or friends for support. On April 13th 2004, I gave birth to a beautiful baby girl. I was evicted from my apartment of five years one week after the birth of my child. I was homeless without a penny to my name and no place to turn.

I contacted Hope House as my last resource and was accepted into the shelter. I had no idea of what to expect of living in a homeless shelter. But to my surprise, I found warm, loving, giving, and caring individuals. They did not judge my situation, but simply accepted and welcomed me. The professional volunteers guided and instructed me through the process of being a new mother and taught me valuable lessons on how to better myself and care for my child.

I was able to obtain permanent housing after several months at Hope House. I had a strong desire to finish my college education, but lacked the financial resources. Hope House staff told me about a new educational assistance program where the goal is to give women the opportunity to break the cycle of poverty and dependence on government assistance. I was required to write a letter of my goals, intentions, and desire to become a productive member of our community. The Board of Directors approved my request for financial support and I was accepted into Del Mar College with the goal of becoming a court reporter. My college studies were going well and I was finally able to obtain child support. I no longer qualified for day care assistance because I was receiving the child support and the cost of daycare exceeded my limited income. Once again, Hope House came to my assistance through their Gabriel Project Community Outreach Program.

I currently have a 3.98 GPA at Del Mar College. I am on the National Dean's List and Phi Beta Kappa. I am eternally grateful for my dream of finishing college is really coming true and I will be able to provide a positive future for my daughter. I owe this all to Corpus Christi Hope House.
