Additional Backup Information

Section 12-4-5 dates back to at least 1967, and at the time of its adoption, ambulance services in the City were provided exclusively by private ambulance providers; the Austin Travis County Emergency Services Department did not exist. Further, section 12-4-5 of the Code is based on a provision in Texas law that has since been substantially amended or repealed by the Texas Legislature. Thus, section 12-4-5 is not required by state law.

Further, the City does not attempt to regulate the speed of other emergency responders (police or fire) when those are responding to an emergency. Therefore, EMS and the Law Department recommend that section 12-4-5 be repealed.
