PROCEDURAL NOTE:

Public restrictive covenants are a means to control use or development of a property and are enforced by the City. A public restrictive covenant (RC) differs from a private RC, which is not enforced by the City, and conditional overlays, which are conditions to the granting of zoning incorporated into a (zoning) ordinance. A public RC can only be amended or terminated with Council approval.

If a public RC has been adopted in conjunction with a zoning or rezoning case, then termination or modification of that public RC is subject to review by the Land Use Commission, as well as the Council. In this case, review of the termination request is the purview of the Planning Commission. However, in preparing for Commission review, it was determined the property is within the Waterfront Overlay District.

Although not a rezoning application per se, if a public RC is adopted as part of a rezoning case the City treats RC termination applications as such with a public hearing at Planning Commission and Council. Per City Code, if an application includes property located within the Waterfront Overlay combining district, PDR staff will request a recommendation from the Waterfront Planning Advisory Board (WPAB) to be considered by the Land Use Commission at the associated public hearing. If the WPAB fails to make a recommendation, the Land Use Commission may act on the application without a recommendation from the WPAB.

DEPARTMENT COMMENTS:

The public restrictive covenant impacts a tract located at the northern end of South Third Street, immediately south of the old "Filling Station" site (please see Exhibits A to A-3).

In 1974, this tract was part of a parcel comprising 1.514 acres that was rezoned by the Planning Commission and Council. The result of the rezoning was "C-2" Commercial, 2nd H&A for the northern 150 feet abutting Barton Springs Road, "C" Commercial, 2nd H&A (from "A" Residence 1st H&A) on the middle of the property, and "B" 1st H&A (from "A" and "B" Residence 1st H&A) on the southern tract (see Exhibit B). The southern tract, Tract 3, is the subject of the restrictive covenant. The 1974 rezoning was approved with the condition that the southernmost 10' adjacent to the single-family residential on South Third Street remain "A" Residence, 1st H&A. Additionally, the Commission required – and the applicant agreed – to restrict the tract to vehicular parking only without a special permit, the provision of a privacy fence north of the "A" residence strip, and a prohibition of access to South Third Street.

Council approved the rezoning request as recommended by the Commission, and a public RC was adopted incorporating those recommendations. The RC executed at the time of the 1974 rezoning (see Exhibit C) thus mandated four things:

- 1) Required a 10-feet wide (then "A" now "SF-3") residential zoning strip along the southern property line;
- 2) Required a 6-feet high privacy fence along the northern edge of that 10-feet wide strip;
- 3) Limited the tract to no other purpose than vehicle parking without an approved special permit; and
- 4) Prohibited access from the (parent) tract to South Third Street, and required its closure at the owners' expense.

With adoption of the Zoning Conversion Ordinance in 1984, the property converted into a combination of CS-1, CS, MF-3, and a 10-feet wide SF-3 strip along the southern boundary. When the Bouldin Creek Neighborhood Plan was adopted in May 2002, the property was rezoned again, to CS-1-NP, MF-3-NP, and SF-3-NP; this rezoned the middle area CS to CS-1 and appended all districts with "NP," reflecting a neighborhood plan combining district.

In 2005 the property was subdivided, with the entirety of the undeveloped subject tract becoming Lot 2 of a 2-lot subdivision (see Exhibit D); the Filling Station building and parking area comprised Lot 1. At the time, a variance was granted by the Planning Commission to not extend South Third Street, as required by subdivision code, although additional right-of-way dedication was required. Each of the two new Lots was sold to different buyers shortly after the subdivision plat was recorded.

Lot 1 (the Filling Station site), was assigned Vertical Mixed-Use Building (V) zoning overlay in 2007. In 2011, The Park PUD was approved by the Council for that Lot. Meanwhile, a 2006 proposal to vacate and replat Lot 2 (the subject tract) was unsuccessful. The primary reason for this was that the variance request to not extend South Third Street was denied this time by the Planning Commission. The applications were subsequently withdrawn.

Consequently, today the subject property remains an undeveloped tract with MF-3-NP zoning, save for the 10' SF-3-NP zoning along the southern edge. A plat restriction limits development of the property to 4 residential units, and conditions of the 1974 public RC still apply. Despite this storied background, the request for consideration at this time only

The subject tract is also within the Auditorium Shores subdistrict of the Waterfront Overlay District. However, it is outside the limits of both the primary and secondary setbacks. There is no additional setback identified in the subdistrict for the creek which crosses the property, nor are there any additional development standards for this subdistrict.

SUMMARY STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Staff recommendation is to grant termination of the public restrictive covenant.

BASIS FOR RECOMMENDATION

The request is for termination of the existing public restrictive covenant only.

This is not a request to change the existing zoning or remove restrictions set forth in the plat, such as the limitation of development to no more than four residential units.

Staff believes two of the four restrictive covenant requirements, namely, that 10' of (then A, now SF-3) residential zoning remain along the southern property line and that a privacy fence be erected on the northern edge of that (single) family residential strip, reflects a desire by the Commission and Council to provide an appropriate setback and buffer between the then existing single-family homes along South Third Street and the proposed multifamily and commercial zoning. In 1974, the City did not have the compatibility requirements that are in place today.

Today, any new development of this tract is subject to Subchapter E. Design Standards and Mixed Use. These standards include:

- setbacks (no structure may be built within 25 feet of the property line; no structure in excess of two stories or 30 feet in height may be constructed within 50 feet of the property line; and no structure in excess of three stories or 40 feet in height may be constructed within 100 feet of the property line);
- 2) landscaping (an area at least 15 feet wide is required along the property line);
- screening (a fence, berm, or dense vegetation must be provided to screen adjoining properties from views of parking, mechanical equipment, storage, and refuse collection); and
- site layout (an intensive recreational use, including a swimming pool, tennis court, ball court, or playground, may not be constructed 50 feet or less from adjoining SF-3 property), among other requirements.

Staff believes the suite of compatibility requirements in place today, and that would apply to development of the tract, adequately protects the abutting single-family residences.

Termination of the covenant would remove the requirement of a privacy fence at the northern edge of the 10' SF-3-NP strip. The result is that the property owner could erect a fence or gate on the property line. Termination would not change the underlying zoning of the 10' SF-3-NP strip. It would, however, allow the owner to submit an application to rezone the property from SF-3-NP. Such an application for rezoning would be subject to all normal rezoning procedures, including public hearings, and positive recommendations by the Waterfront Planning Advisory Board and the Planning Commission, as well as adoption by the City Council.

Requirement that the tract be used only for vehicular parking without a special permit while simultaneously rezoning it multifamily may reflect willingness on the part of the Commission and Council for flexibility. At the time this tract was rezoned to multifamily, zoning maps indicate it abutted multifamily to the east, and single family to the west and south; the remainder of the parent tract was rezoned commercial, extending northward to Barton Springs. One can reasonably presume the tract could be used as parking for any commercial endeavors to the north, or developed as a multifamily project.

At this time in the 1970s, all site plans for apartments and condominiums were reviewed by the Planning Commission as special permits. Moreover, at this time multifamily projects could be developed on commercially zoned tracts, if they were approved as a special permit by the Commission. Clearly, the Council was not attempting to prohibit multifamily uses of the property. Rather, the Council simultaneously granted multifamily zoning to the southern tract and took steps to ensure that the site plan for any permitted use – other than parking - was reviewed and approved by the Planning Commission, via the special permit process. Planning Commission consideration of such special permits necessarily meant public notice to nearby residents and a hearing on the proposed site plan.

Today, multifamily projects are common and may be approved administratively unless they involve a variance – in which case site plan approval by the relevant Boards and Commission is required. In addition, today the City notifies property owners and residents within 500 feet of a property when a site plan application is filed. Those residents so inclined may register as interested parties. The covenant's requirement of a special permit for any use other than vehicular parking is procedural, and not a substantive prohibition against uses otherwise allowed under the multifamily zoning. Given the notice and review provisions of today's Land Development Code, staff believes the absolute requirement for Commission review of a site plan on this tract is an unnecessary requirement, unless some sort of variance is requested.

Lastly, the covenant's prohibition against access to and from South Third Street from this property effectively makes this tract land-locked and therefore undevelopable. At the time the RC was adopted, this tract was part of a larger parcel that extended to Barton Springs Road. Preventing cut-through traffic or shortcuts across the property from Barton Springs to South Third Street was likely seen as an appropriate protection for residents along South Third Street. Such a prohibition of access to South Third Street also reflects the idea this southern tract was seen as likely to be incorporated and developed with commercial and/or multifamily activities to the north, fronting Barton Springs Road.

Today, incorporation seems infeasible. There is an approximate six-foot drop in elevation from this tract to the old Filling Station parking lot; there is a creek and ravine crossing the eastern part of the property that ostensibly separates the buildable area of this tract from the area to the north and apartments to the east. Drainage easements and critical water quality zones also encumber the property. In addition to these physical and regulatory constraints, the property to the north of this tract is under separate ownership and development as the Park PUD; staff is unaware of any provision for access to Barton Springs Road for this tract.

Conditions on the property have changed since 1974. The potential for cut-through traffic from Barton Springs to South Third no longer exists; this tract abuts South Third Street and does not have vehicular access to Barton Springs. The reality is that without access to South Third Street, this tract is effectively land-locked and will likely not be developed. While staff acknowledges access to and from this tract to South Third Street may have an impact on the abutting single-family neighborhood, staff believes the request for access, which would allow the owner to develop up to four residential units, is a reasonable one; given the changes since 1974, it also seems a justifiable one.

In sum, staff believes the three substantive prohibitions in the covenant (no access to South Third Street, provide a single-family residential buffer/setback, and build a fence), as well as the procedural requirement (no multifamily or other allowed use without Planning Commission approval), were intended to protect the then abutting and existing single-family residential, and to keep residents and owners informed of the proposed development of the site. These conditions were also adopted when the parent rezoning parcel stretched from Barton Springs Road to South Third Street. While much has changed along Barton Springs Road, including approval of The Park PUD on the northern portion of this tract's parent parcel, the immediate neighborhood along South Third Street remains single-family residential. As such, any development on this tract must comply with today's compatibility standards and other current land development provisions. Area residents and owners will be notified of any proposed site development.

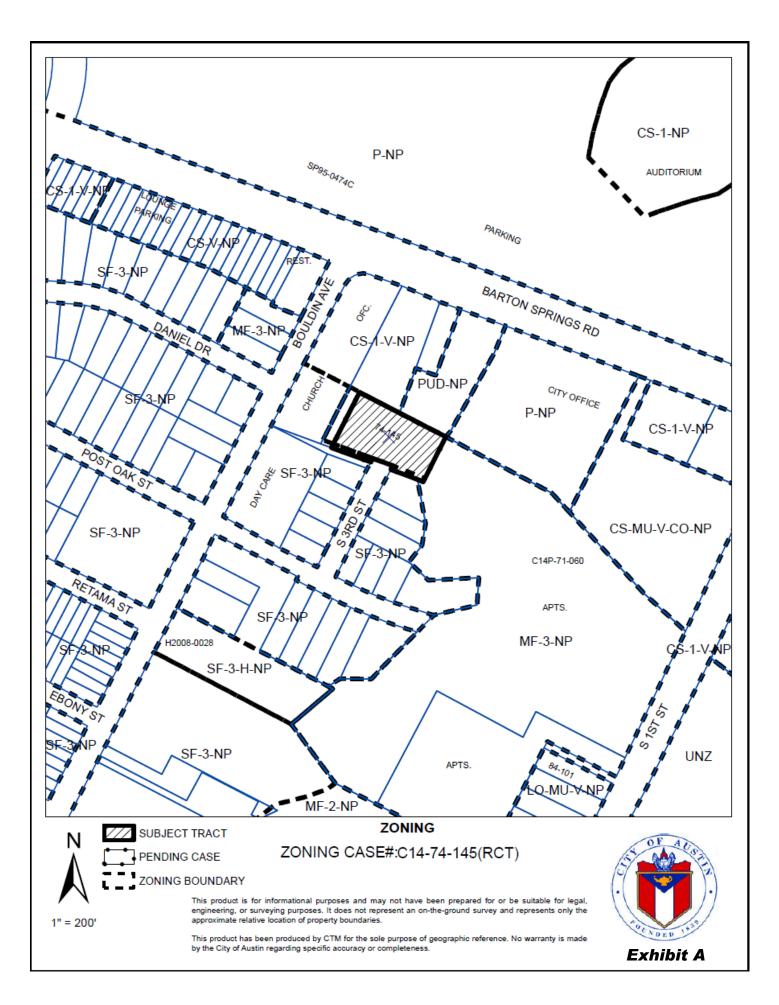

Staff believes the protections adopted by Council in 1974 when adopting the rezoning ordinance and restrictive covenant are still appropriate, but that these protections are well provided (or even exceeded) with current Code and application requirements. Furthermore, staff does not believe the Council would restrict access on this isolated tract today, thus rendering it undevelopable. Given the recent adoption of a comprehensive plan that encourages both infill and neighborhood protection, maintaining a prohibition against access, and thus precluding a residential development that would be comparable to typical and nearby single-family density, seems contrary to those goals. For these reasons, staff recommends termination of the public restrictive covenant.

EXISTING CONDITIONS

Site Characteristics

The site is an undeveloped tract currently zoned MF-3-NP and SF-3-NP at the northern terminus of South Third Street. It is heavily wooded, although it is unknown if any of the trees are considered protected under the Code. The site is topographically constrained, falling from west to east, and with a sharp drop to the north; East Bouldin Creek separates the eastern portion of the tract from the western. The site is further constrained by floodplain and easements. The property is encumbered with FEMA and Austin's fully developed floodplain, and nearly the entire eastern third of the tract remains in a Drainage Easement and Critical Water Quality Zone.

A plat restriction limits development of the tract/Lot to a maximum of 4 residential units.
