PROPOSAL

Demolish a ca. 1935 house.

ARCHITECTURE

One-story, rectangular-plan, front-gabled stuccoed frame house with a shed-roofed addition to the left of the principal block; central, partial-width, front-gabled independent porch with a stuccoed tympanum on round wood posts; single and double fenestration, all covered by metal hurricane louvers.

RESEARCH

The house appears to have been built in 1935 by Gus Becker, who also built several other houses on W. Milton Street in the 1920s and 1930s, all as rental properties. Archie and Geneva Holmes are the first known tenants of this house; he had no occupation listed in the 1937 city directory, and they lived here only until 1938, when the house was rented by James C. and Bettie V. Fincher, who eventually purchased the house. James C. Fincher was a sanitation worker; after his death in 1952, Bettie, who had worked in a laundry and a grocery store, lived here until around 1960. The house was then purchased by Louis and Leonor Cazares. Louis Cazares was a shipping clerk for Nelson Davis, a wholesale grocery business, and later a laborer for Woodward Industries, a furniture manufacturer in South Austin. There is an indication that Louis and Leonor Cazares divorced in 1971; when Louis died in 1978, he was living on Elizabeth Street rather than at this house, but Leonor is still listed as his wife in his obituary. Leonor Cazares was still living here in the 1990s.

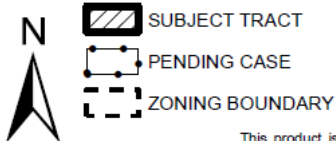

STAFF COMMENTS

The house is not listed in any City survey.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Release the permit after completion of a City of Austin Documentation Package, consisting of photographs of all elevations (preferably after removal of the hurricane louvers), a dimensioned sketch plan, and a narrative history, for archiving at the Austin History Center. The house has neither the architectural nor the historical significance to warrant individual designation as a historic landmark.

- 1935 There is a 400 W. Milton Street listed in the directory; it was the home of a widow named Henrietta Roberts, but given the other evidence from Sanborn maps and utility connection permits, it is likely that Mrs. Roberts lived at what is now 312 W. Milton Street rather than at this house, which was not constructed until late 1935.
