PROPOSAL

Demolish a ca. 1950 house.

ARCHITECTURE

One-story, wing-and-gable plan, frame house with a partial-width inset porch on turned wood posts; tri-partite picture window in the front wall shaded by the porch, otherwise single 2:2 horizontally-configured fenestration.

RESEARCH

The house was built in 1950 by the Capitol City Lumber Company. The first owners and occupants were F. Harrell “Mac” McFarland and his wife, Lucille, who lived here until around 1970. Mac McFarland was the chief clerk for the Adjutant General’s Department and spent his working life in that office. After the McFarland family moved out, the house was a rental property in the 1980s and 1990s.

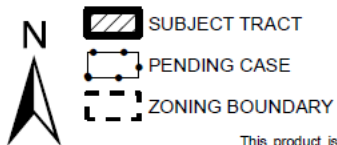

STAFF COMMENTS

The house does not appear in any City survey.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Release the permit after completion of a City of Austin Documentation Package, consisting of photographs of all elevations, a dimensioned sketch plan, and a narrative history, for archiving at the Austin History Center. The house has neither the architectural nor the historical significance to warrant individual designation as a historic landmark.
