Additional Backup Information

During the Fiscal Year 2014-2015 budget adoption proceedings, City Council allotted $298,000 of one-time funding for the Austin Technology Partnership ("ATP"). The ATP is a proposed public-private partnership between the City's Economic Development Department and Austin Technology Council ("ATC") that supports the City's technology sector by enhancing education, community, and economic development. During the deliberation of this budget item, it was requested that ATC secure funding from other cities and economic development entities within the region. The Economic Development Department will negotiate a one-year agreement with ATC that includes performance benchmarks for securing other funding, evaluates program costs, and funds critically needed data collection and analysis, and stakeholder inclusion and integration initiatives.
