DEMOLITION AND RELOCATION PERMITS
HDP-2015-0024
2004 PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE

PROPOSAL

Demolish a ca. 1908 house.

ARCHITECTURE

One-story, rectangular-plan, pyramidal hipped roof frame house with a partial-width inset porch on non-historic supports; windows and doors have been boarded over; synthetic siding.

RESEARCH

The house appears to have been built around 1908 by Sampson E. and Elizabeth Murray, an African-American couple, at its original location at 2404 Longview Street in Wheatville. Sampson E. Murray had been born in Austin, and was a piano refinisher for the J.R. Reed Music Company on Congress Avenue. He was also a Baptist minister, and pastored at the 12th Street Baptist Church and the Friendly Will Baptist Church in South Austin. His wife Elizabeth died around 1936; he then married a woman named Mary. The Murrays owned and lived in this house until around 1946. At the time of his death in 1948, S.E. Murray was living on Poquito Street.

The house was then a rental property until 1963, when it was moved from its West Campus location to its current location in East Austin. Prior to the move, the house was rented by UT students.

After the move to East Austin, the house was owned and occupied by John and Mable Scott. John Scott was an African-American porter for the State House of Representatives; after his death, Mable Scott worked as a maid. She died in 2008.

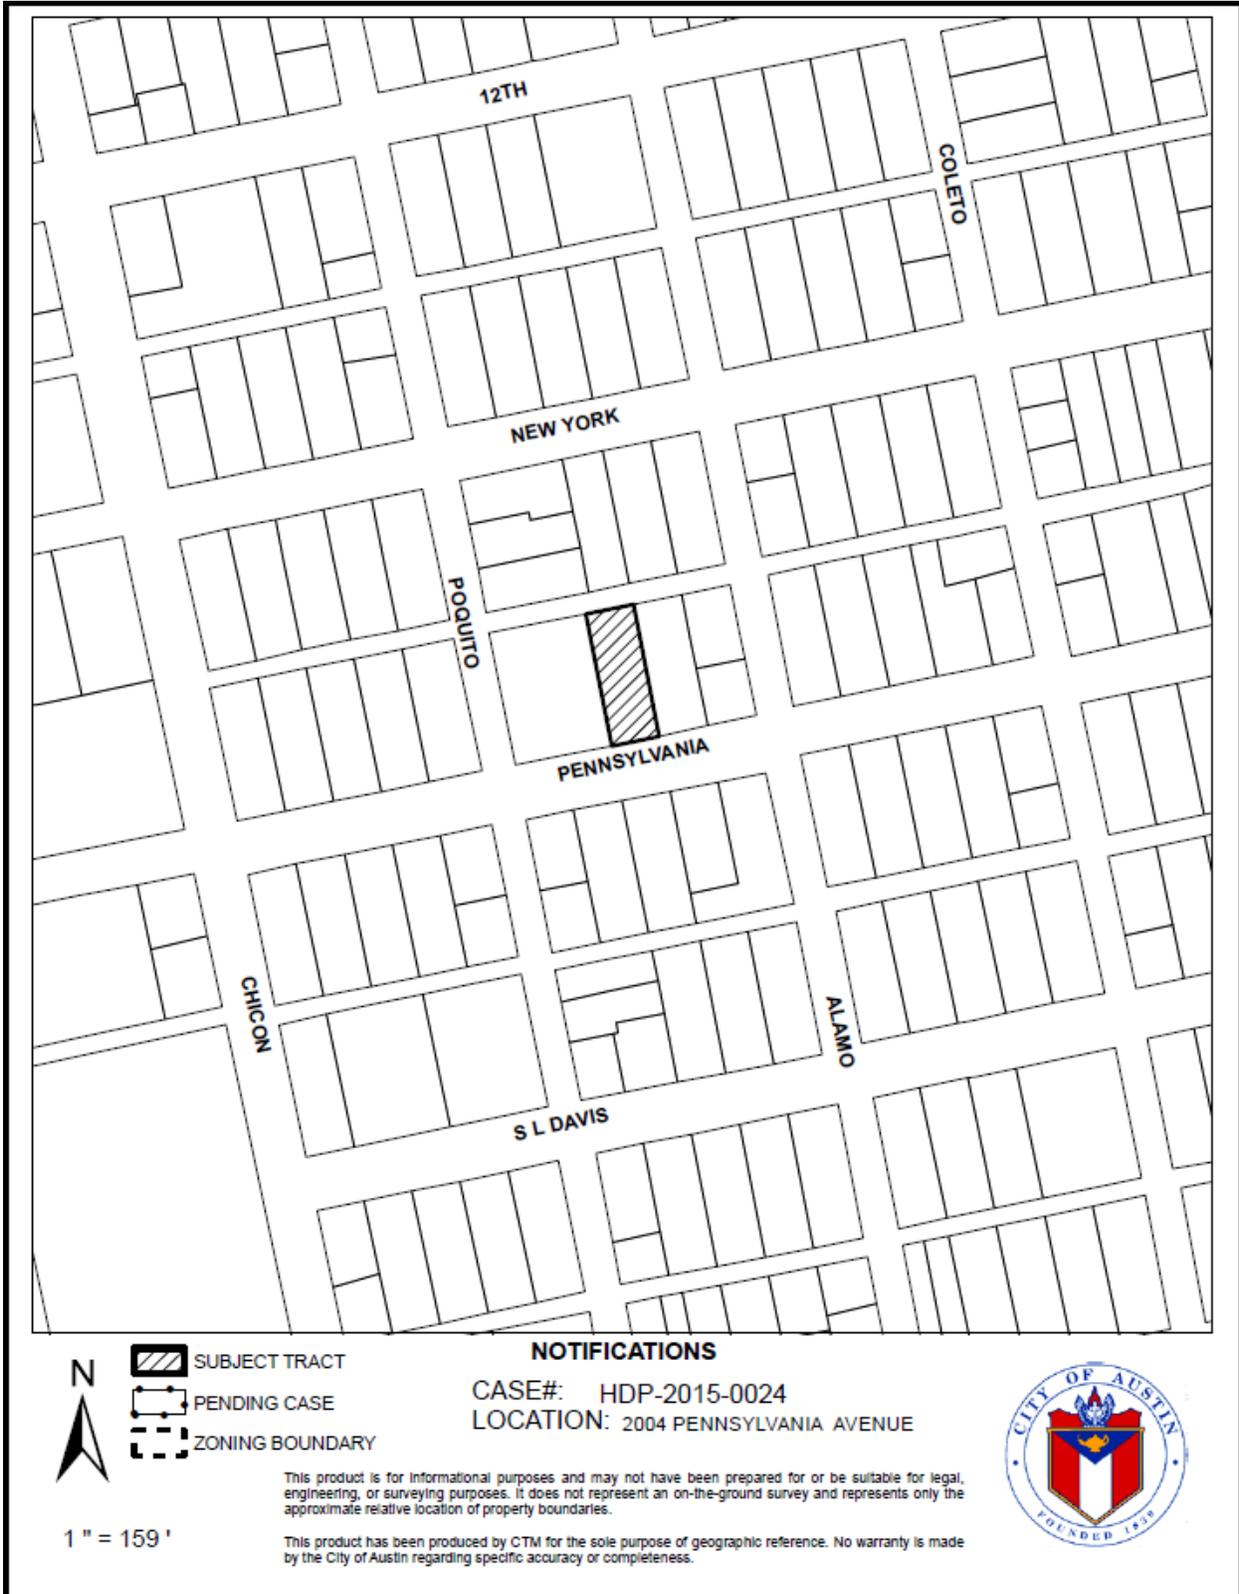

STAFF COMMENTS

The house is listed as a medium priority for preservation in the Historic Resources Survey of East Austin (2000).

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Request that the applicant consider rehabilitation and re-use rather than demolition if the house is structurally sound – its condition is difficult to determine and the doors and windows have been boarded over. If rehabilitation is not feasible, then staff recommends completion of a City of Austin Documentation Package, consisting of photographs of all elevations (after the removal of the securing boards), a dimensioned sketch plan, and a narrative history, for archiving at the Austin History Center, prior to release of the permit.
