PROPOSAL

Demolish a ca. 1957 A.D. Stenger design house.

ARCHITECTURE

The house is an A.D Stenger mid-century modern house Tri-Split level home. It is a frame with stone veneer on the front of the building and an angular roof.

RESEARCH

1000 Lund Street was built in 1957 by A.D Stenger. It was showcased in May 1957 as Austin Association of Home Builders Home of the Month. A.D (Arthur Dallas) Stenger was a prominent mid-century modern designer/builder in Austin. He got his start after passing his professional licensing exam in 1950 while a student at University of Texas School of Architecture. Leaving UT before completing the program, Stenger jumped into the post-war housing boom. Stenger was often compared to prominent California developer Joseph Eichler in the design sensibility and open living areas prominent in his designs. A "Stenger" home has low pitch gable roof, pronounced rafter tails, post and beam construction, and conservative foot print with most buildings being under 1500 square feet, and exposed beams and decking. Stenger also often included walls of collected stone, gable ends that terminate in a projecting point and cantilevered structural systems.

Lund St and the surrounding streets within South Lund Park are an area where A.D Stenger focused and built many houses.

This specific house was completed in 1957 and the first listing in the city directories for the property was in 1959 when Bill Hoover, a merchandise manager at Carpenter Paper was renting the home. Starting in the mid to late 1960s, the home was owned by Thais Freda Bullard, the daughter of pioneer volcanologist, geologist and geophysicist Fred Bullard who taught for many years at University of Texas. Thais was a graduate of University of Texas in 1951 and owned the property from the late 1960s until the late 1980s. She was always listed as living in the house in unit a and she had various renters in unit b, the efficiency unit. By 1992 the property had been converted into 3 different units and were all being used as rentals

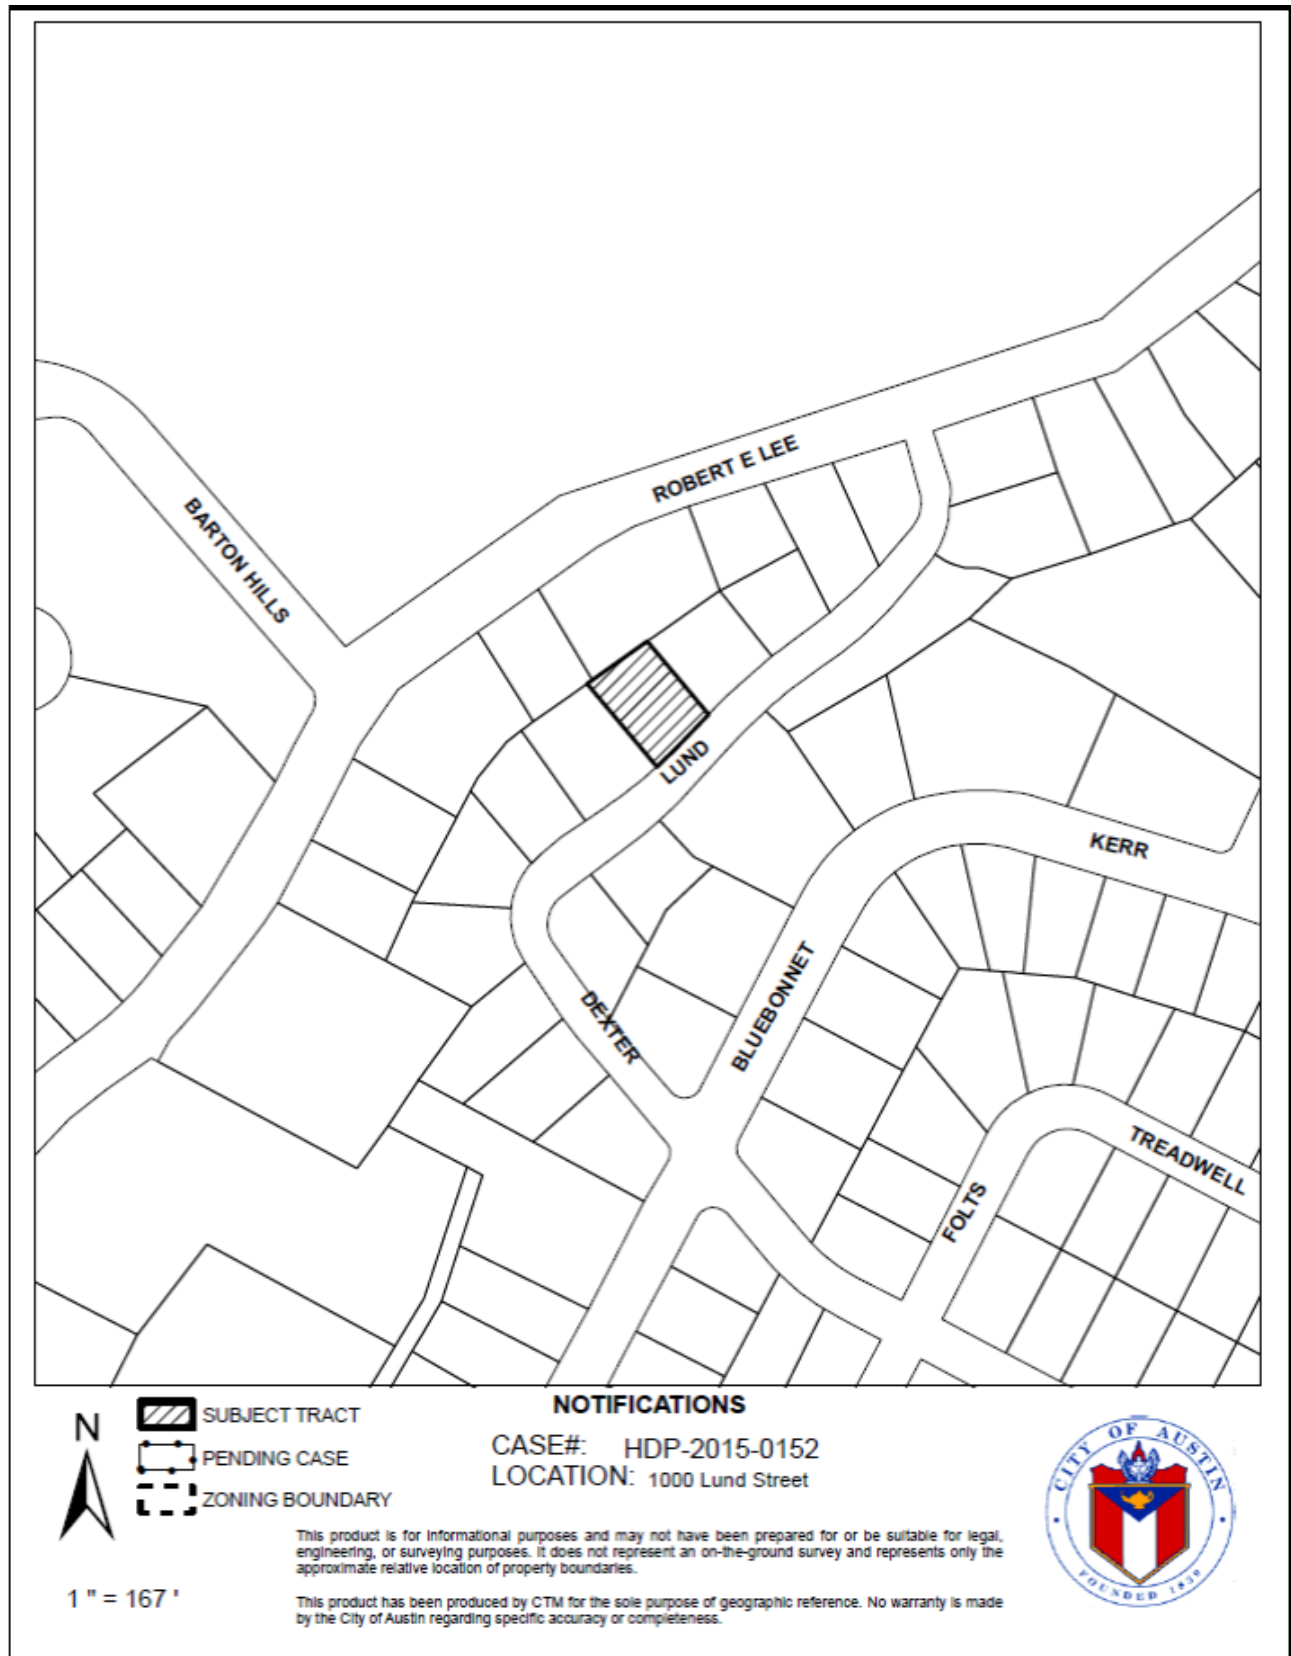

STAFF COMMENTS

The property is not listed in any City surveys.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Staff recommends initiating a historic zoning case. This house has architectural and historical significance as an A.D Stenger house that was highlighted as a Home of the Month. The house exemplifies many Stenger design components including the use of stone and taking advantage of the topography of the land in the design and orientation of the building.
