Additional Backup Information

The contract is for the purchase of a mobile preconditioned air unit for the Austin-Bergstrom International Airport (ABIA). Mobile preconditioned air units are used to supply air conditioning and heating to aircrafts coming into the boarding bridges or ramp parking positions and they are powered by diesel fuel. If preconditioned air units are not used, the aircraft will need to run an auxiliary power unit (APU) that uses jet fuel for cooling and heating. By using preconditioned air units in lieu of running the aircraft's APU, commercial airlines will reduce fuel consumption and pollution created by aircrafts.

ABIA uses a "Shared Use" system, in which one gate can be used by more than one carrier. ABIA is expanding its "Shared Use" service model for commercial airlines. This will include providing carriers with the use of specific ground support equipment for airline operations. This mobile preconditioned air unit will be used to support the parked aircraft's air system at the shared gates during pre-flight boarding and un-boarding activities.

This purchase is a critical element of the "Shared Use" system and the equipment is necessary for backup cooling and heating needs in the boarding bridges. If a permanent preconditioned air unit became inoperable, this mobile equipment can be relocated to any location to provide the necessary cooling and heating.
