PROPOSAL

Demolish a ca. 1961 house.

ARCHITECTURE

One-story, L-plan, brick-veneered hipped-roof ranch-style house with single and paired 2:2 horizontally-configured metal-framed windows; shed-roofed entry hood on an ornamental metal support.

RESEARCH

The house was built in 1961 by H. Morris Stevens and his wife, Gwendolyn Schieffer Stevens, on the land that her parents, Emmett and Jeanette Schieffer, had purchased and built their home in 1948. Emmett Schieffer was a retired dairy farmer whose family had owned this land for many years as a dairy farm. He had no occupation listed in the city directories during the time that he lived on Brookview Road, but was a major figure in the development of the Cherrywood neighborhood – Schieffer Avenue bears his name. H. Morris Stevens demolished Emmett Schieffer's house in 1961 and built this ranch-style house for himself and his wife. H. Morris Stevens was the chief clerk at the State Treasury Department for many years.

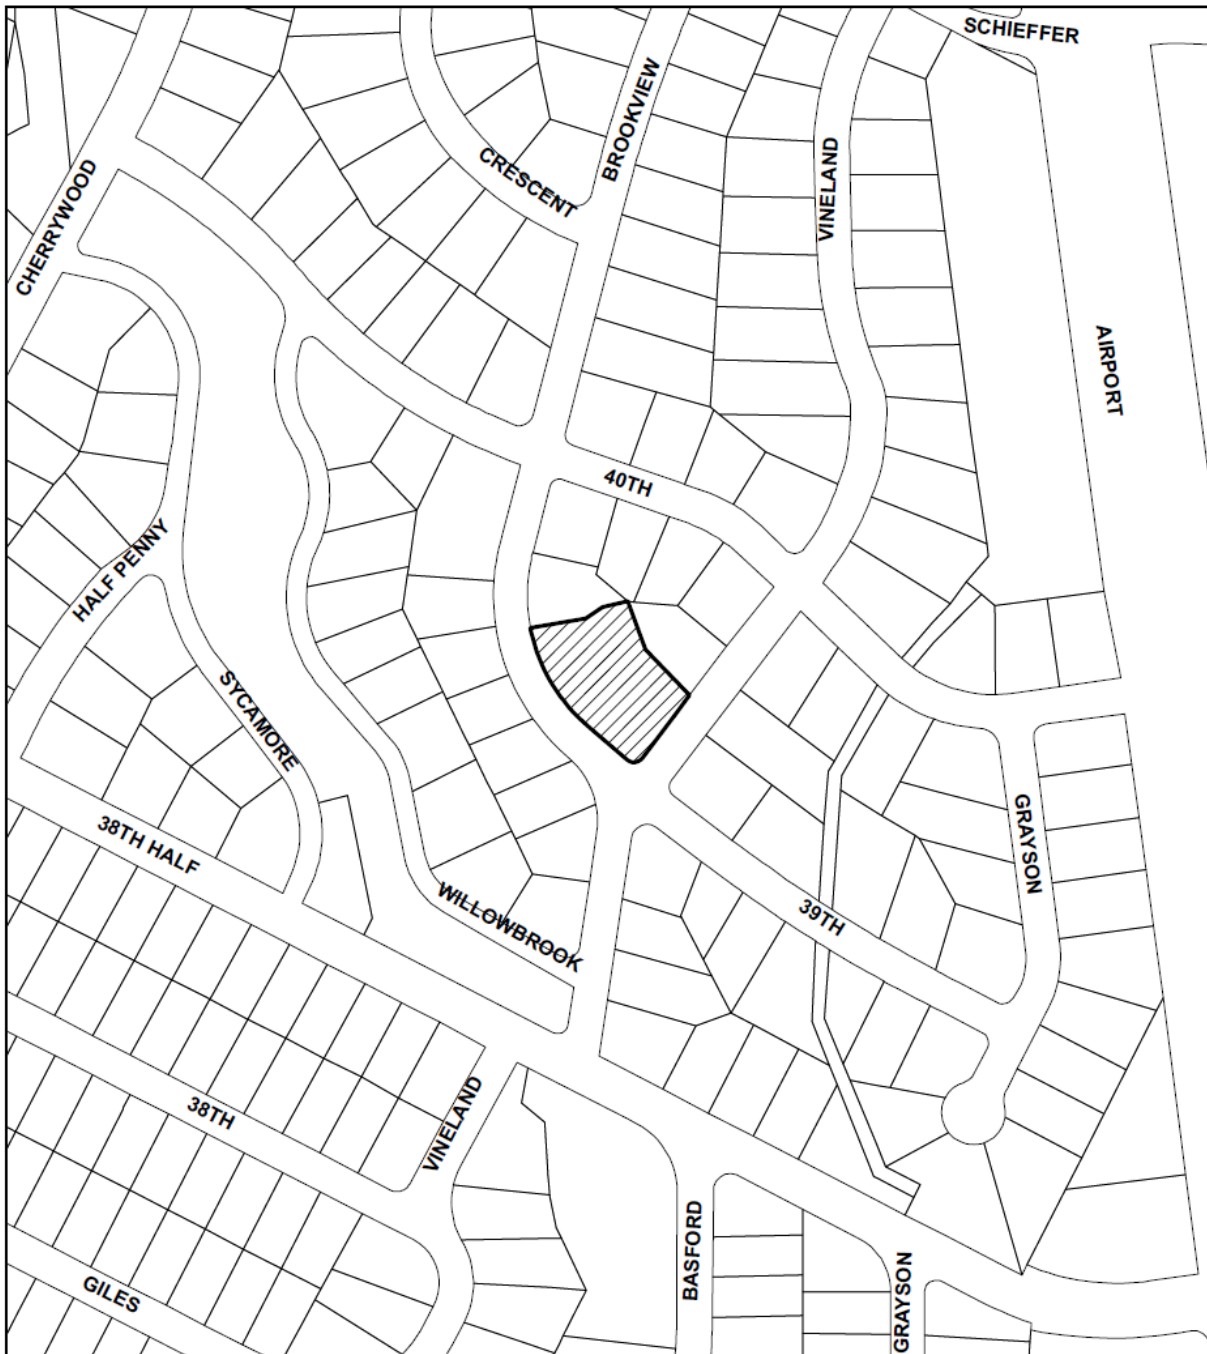

STAFF COMMENTS

The house is beyond the bounds of any City survey to date.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Encourage rehabilitation and adaptive re-use, but release the permit upon completion of a City of Austin Documentation Package, consisting of photographs of all elevations, a dimensioned sketch plan, and a narrative history, for archiving at the Austin History Center.

Steve:

There is a pending application for sub dividing the lot at 3901 Brookview. Application #

2016-081764 C8

This house was built in 1961 but is significant as being the last homestead of the Schieffer family who farmed this area since the turn of the century. This lot has five heritage trees on it and is one of the nicer lots in the area. The developer is proposing to sub divide it into three lots and we suspect they will try to build six units total.

This lot is not appropriate for this type of development and to do so will most likely result in the demolition of the house and removal of the trees.

The Schieffer-Willowbroom NA is interested in possibly seeking historical status as a first step in becoming a Neighborhood Conservation Combining District.

Your assistance is appreciated.

David Boston

Chair SWNA

Steve:

This is the house I contacted you on previously. It was owned by the Schieffer family who owned the original farm land in this neighborhood. They also donated the land for Maplewood elementary School.

The property has five heritage size Oak trees on it as well. Keith Mars has been notified.

Thanks

David Boston
Chair SWNA

Steve,

I am a member of the Schieffer-Willowbrook neighborhood association and live a block and half from the property in question. I think it's absurd that this very average 1960s house at 3901 Brookview would be considered a historic landmark. The house I live in on Grayson Ln. was occupied by the owner of the Continental Club for 40+ years, and while that makes for some very cool history, it doesn't make my house special for anything besides being a great place to raise my family.

I am very concerned that David Boston has an interest in freezing our neighborhood as is and pursuing Neighborhood Conservation Combining District. When our neighborhood was built it was a whites-only working and middle class area. My 80 year old neighbor was a teacher. There is no way a teacher could afford to buy in our neighborhood now unless they were married to a banker, and our population is still only about 95% white (by my unscientific count of our very small NA). Starting to designate totally average homes as historic to avoid the construction of duplexes will not help diversify our neighborhood or help us move away from Austin's embarrassing status as the most economically segregated metro area in the country.

sincerely,
Jennifer Potter-Miller
