BASIS FOR RECOMMENDATION:

Staff cannot recommend this house for historic zoning. It is a brand new adaptation of a reconstruction of the ca. 1906 house that fell down during the course of rehabilitation. No historic materials remain on this house.

Architecture:

Original house:

One-story, rectangular-plan, side-gabled frame house with a central, front gablet with fish-scale imbrication in the tympanum; partial-width, hipped-roof, independent porch on ornamental metal posts; single 1:1 fenestration; metal roof.

The existing house is a one-story, rectangular-plan, side gabled frame house with a central, front gablet with fish scale imbrication, but the design and materials of the porch have changed from the original configuration. The single 1:1 fenestration on the original house has been replaced with single 9:9 fenestration. There is a two-story, contemporary-styled addition to the back of the house.

Historical Associations:

The original house appears to have been built around 1906 in a historically African-American neighborhood. It is not entirely clear who the first occupant of the house was – city directories show a John Washington as the resident of a house listed as 2008 E. 14th Street in 1906; he worked for William Tears, the city’s leading African-American undertaker. By 1909, Walter Smith, a hostler for a livery, boarding, and sale stable, was living in this house, and the city directories show the address as 2100 E. 14th Street. Lillie Washington is listed as the occupant of the house by 1911, and the 1910 U.S. Census shows her as the owner of the house. Lillie Washington was listed as a mulatto in the census report; she lived here with her 9-year old daughter, Leary, and was a washer-woman for a private family. There is no mention of a husband in the census report – it could have been John Washington, but Lillie had been married for 10 years. After Lillie Washington is listed in the city directories, the next occupant listed is John Scott, who lived here until around 1915. John Scott was a driver for Merchants Transfer, a warehousing company that stored goods hauled to the city by rail. City directories of that era do not list the name of a man’s wife, so it is not clear whether the former Lillie Washington married John Scott, and changed her name to Lillie Scott, but by 1915, the house was owned and occupied by a woman named Lillie Scott, who lived here for the rest of her life. Lillie Scott had occupations typical for African-American women in the early- to mid-20th century – she worked as a laundress, a seamstress, a cook, and a maid, all the while owning this house. After her death in 1958, the house was purchased by a Joel Manning, who rehabilitated the house (apparently installing a bathroom), then sold it to James W. and Mabel Clemons, who lived here until around 1970. James Clemons was a laborer and clerk at the University of Texas. Through the 1970s and early 1980s, the house was rented by Ira S. and Helen Marshall; Ira S. Marshall was also a clerk at the University of Texas and later employed by an institutional foods company.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES

Lillie Scott (ca. 1911 – ca. 1958)

Lillie Scott appears in the 1940 U.S. Census as the owner of this house, which was worth $600. Lillie Scott was then a 56-year old Texas-born widow with no occupation listed. She had 2 lodgers: Mozelle and Ruby Steward. Mozelle Steward was 43, had been born in Texas, and was a stone mason for house construction. Ruby Steward was 37, had been born in Texas, and was a cook for a fraternity house. The 1930 U.S. Census shows Lillie Scott as a cook and maid living in the home of Shields and Corinne Norwood at 604 W. 19th Street in Austin. She is shown as being a 40 year old widow.

The 1920 U.S. Census shows Lillie Scott as the owner of this house. She is listed as a 36-year old widow who was a laundress at home.

The 1910 U.S. Census shows Lillie Washington as the owner of this house. She was a 32-year old Texas-born mulatto, who had been married for 10 years, although her husband is not listed in the census report. She was a washer-woman for a private family. She had a daughter, Leary, 9, who was also listed as a mulatto.

According to her 1958 death certificate, Lillie Scott was 73 when she died, was the daughter of Silas and Mollie Smith, and was a housekeeper.

There is a John Washington listed in the 1910 U.S. Census; he lived with Columbus Washington and George B. Brooks at 300 E. 6th Street in Austin. He was 19 years old, had been born in Texas, and was a porter in a hotel. Columbus Washington was a hotel waiter; George B. Brooks was a band leader. This may be the John Washington listed in the city directories; Lillie Scott's death certificate notes that the person who had given the information for the death certificate was James Brooks, Jr., who may have been a relative of George B. Brooks.
