Work Groups

The AAQoL Advisory Commission accomplishes a large portion of its work through its work groups. The following section highlights work group activity over the past year.

Asian American Resource Center (AARC) Oversight Work Group
Commission Members: Debasree DasGupta (Lead), Peter Chao, Vince Cobalis
Other members: Taja Beekley (AARC Manager), Sonya Alexander-Harris (HR Rep), Thuy Nguyen, Gopal Guthikonda (NAAO rep), Hailey Easley (AARC Non-profit rep)

The AARC Oversight Work Group reviews and provides advice on AARC programming, strategic plans, staffing, information gathering, and cultural events. A major function of the work group is to assess budget needs at the AARC and make recommendations to the Commission and City Council.

Key 2017-18 Accomplishments

- Renovated kitchen utilized as part of facility rentals and received positive feedback
  - The work group reviewed and provided feedback on kitchen use and policies
  - The original plan to have Senior Meal caterers use kitchen has not worked out
  - There have been inquiries regarding renting the kitchen by itself, but there are licenses, food enterprise permits, food handling training, and feasibility to be taken into account

- Purchase of a transportation van was approved in the FY 2016-17 budget, but it has not yet been received during this reporting period

- Overall utilization of AARC has increased
  - Visits to the center is already at 29,925 at this point in the year
  - The number of events and programs are constantly on the rise, emphasizing the need for more FTEs
  - They are getting two additional part-time employees, one of whom is a replacement, but regular FTEs are needed

- Senior Meal program expansion to four days a week has continued despite reduction in funding
  - There continues to be four vendors preparing Chinese, Korean, Japanese, and Indian foods
One of the vendors has increased the cost per meal by a dollar

The workgroup provided feedback on meal suggestion
  - Recommended that a code of conduct be developed for participants of RICE Senior Meal program

The Human Resources Department (HRD) is providing an Employment Specialist once a week with limited success
  - Lack of space has been a challenge, and the workgroup has been providing suggestions and support to HRD

Goals for 2018-19

- Continue to explore ways to better utilize the commercial kitchen
- Analyze the option of hiring a chef instead of current vendors for Senior Meal program, using the commercial kitchen

Human Resources Diversity Issues Work Group
Commission Members: Janki DePalma (resigned) Sarah Chen (new Lead), Vince Cobalis

Key 2017-18 Accomplishments

- Employment Specialist from HRD works eight hours per week at the Asian American Resource Center. This year, in addition to office hours at the Resource Center, there was specific outreach to other events and locations. Unfortunately, this position often requires access to the City’s internal system, which is not possible at off-site locations.
- Continued translation of key outreach materials in Asian languages, including announcements for the career fair held by the City
- An Employment Specialist at AARC more familiar with the Asian American community improved the numbers of people assisted, although the numbers continue to be low
- Frequent collaboration with HRD staff on how to maximize the outreach to the local Asian-American community, including participation in Job Fairs, CelebrAsia, and APA Heritage Month
  - Co-hosted community resource/job fair
  - Employment Specialist participated in community meetings to understand specific employment concerns in the Asian American community

Goals for 2018-19

- Review diversity reports from departments and determine where additional focus is needed
- Support the AAEN objectives, which were developed in the spring through surveys with AAEN members
- Work with the HRD to provide an annual report to the Commission

Health Work Group

Commission Members: Kavita Radhakrishnan, Vince Cobalis, Catherina Conte, Molly Wang

Other members: Hailey Easley, Kitty Ho, Sinying Chan, Binh Ly, Veena Vishwanathan

The purpose of the Health Workgroup is to (1) identify the critical health needs of Asian Americans in Austin and explore strategies to address these health needs, (2) address health priority needs of Asian Americans in Austin by planning and implementing action items, and (3) connect with existing health resources in the city and sensitize them to the unique needs of Asian Americans in Austin.

Key 2017-18 Accomplishments

- Outreach to community agencies and individuals empathetic with Asian American health needs
Held meetings at People’s Community Clinic, Integral Care, Austin Public Health’s (APH) Equity unit, and Asian American Resource Center (AARC)

Invited community members to join the Health Workgroup and contribute to the discussion

Currently, the APH Health Equity Unit has two Asian Americans on staff, which is making a positive impact on health interests of Asian Americans in Austin.

The health workgroup functions as a liaison, between the different health agencies. For example, it:

- Increased awareness about the AARC Nonprofit community health worker (CHW) navigator program and People’s Community Clinic
- Helped connect an intern from UT Austin School of Nursing to incorporate cultural competency in Integral Care’s curriculum for mental health professions, supervised by Commissioner Molly Wang. The health workgroup also brainstormed to inform Integral Care’s language access policies and procedures.
- Received a presentation by Jackie Nirenberg of CapMetro, who presented several public transit options for clients in lower economic groups. This information was disseminated among health workgroup members, which could be useful to their Asian American clients.

Reports on output from AAQoL survey data: Dr. Jang, who conducted the study on AAQoL survey, presented her perspectives on possible future uses of the AAQOL survey dataset and its relevance in a public portal. Dr. Jang and her team notified the health work group that approximately 16 reports and publications have been generated from the dataset.

The health workgroup will closely work with the Navigator program and the APH Equity Unit to obtain a list of resources of free health fairs and flu clinics of relevance to Asian Americans. Related to this endeavor, Vicki Bailey from APH and Ana Todd and Jamie Rock, public health faculty from UT Austin School of Nursing, collaborated to provide immunization of people in the Burmese sub-community of Matus using the flu vaccines reserved for Asian Americans.

Led by Commissioner Molly Wang, the health workgroup submitted a proposal to Dell Medical School’s Center for Place-Based Initiatives to develop a database of all Asian American community leaders, agencies, and places of interest. This proposal has been assigned a student resource, which the health work group could pursue in FY 2018-19.
 Commissioner Cobalis commented on the desired qualities in the director of APH to a recruitment panel. The group discussed in-depth desired qualities in the director of APH.

 Obtained data and presentation from APH on health status of Asian American adult patients who used safety net clinics in Travis county (ICC dataset) during 2016. Data was presented for chronic diseases of diabetes, hypertension, high cholesterol and behavioral health for the racial/ethnic groups of White, Black, Hispanic, and Asian. Also, the differences between the ICC data with BRFSS data was presented. Asian Americans had the lowest percentage of safety net clinic visits for behavioral health issues among all other racial groups.

 Monitoring progress of the initiatives recommended for City funding by the AAQOL Commission by inviting reports on their progress. The Community Health Navigator program links Korean, Vietnamese, and Burmese residents to health-related services and benefits. 160 clients were served in 2017, exceeding the goal of 152 clients. 85% (130) clients demonstrated improved life skills, which is way above the expected goal of 66.7% (50).

 Identified budget priorities for FY 2018-19 related to health needs of Asian Americans in Austin, including continued fiscal support to the AARC nonprofit’s Community Health Navigator program and Health Equity funding – For services to Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) individuals, including immigrants, affected by physical and mental health disparities.
