Additional Backup Information:

A number of Austin Water lift stations in South and Northwest Austin require engineering services for improvements. Lift stations and force mains in these areas have been identified for improvements based on the condition of the dry well, wet well, force main, or the capacity of the existing pumps and force main conveyance capacity.

As outlined in the solicitation process, staff evaluated and ranked the firms, then allowed the top ranked firm to choose either the South or Northwest Area Lift Station Improvements. As a result, CDM Smith, Inc. will perform the South Area Lift Station Improvements while K Frieze & Associates, Inc. will perform the Northwest Area Lift Station Improvements. The estimated consultant project cost for planning, preliminary engineering, final design, and bid phase is $3,500,000 for the South Area lift station improvements and $3,500,000 for the Northwest Area lift station improvements. The City intends to return to Council to request additional authorization for construction phase and warranty phase services. These amounts will be determined after the preliminary and final design recommendations are reviewed and approved by the City.
