

HISTORIC LANDMARK COMMISSION
AUGUST 26, 2019
PERMITS IN NATIONAL REGISTER HISTORIC DISTRICTS
NRD-2019-0042
609 DAVIS STREET
RAINEY STREET NATIONAL REGISTER HISTORIC DISTRICT

PROPOSAL

Construct a 2-story structure with mezzanine level adjacent to a ca. 1918-20 house.

ARCHITECTURE

One-story Craftsman house with wood horizontal and shingle siding, 1:1 wood windows, a gabled roof with composition shingles, exposed rafter tails and decorative brackets, a picture window, and a large deck addition.

PROJECT SPECIFICATIONS

- 1) Relocate the existing building's entrance to the Rainey Street elevation, and replace an existing door with windows on the same elevation.
- 2) Remove and replace the existing fence, ramp, and deck with a steel fence, CMU wall, and reconfigured deck and yard space.
- 3) Construct a two-story structure with mezzanine to the rear of the property, independent from the historic building. The first floor deck will be enclosed by a steel fence with metal railings above a solid wood-clad base. An elevator shaft, clad in stucco, will be added. The mezzanine level contains a balcony with steel guardrails. The second-floor façade will begin above the ridgeline of the historic house, approximately 10' back from the front wall. It sits atop steel piers and features a street-facing balcony, gabled enclosed structures with rooflines and exposed rafter tails to match the existing building, and a latticed steel pergola. The enclosed gabled structures are each clad in horizontal siding with wood trim, and feature metal roofs and fixed-pane windows beneath each gable.

RESEARCH

The existing house appears to have been built between 1918 and 1920 by A.G. Malmberg, a shoemaker, and his wife Ida. They lived there for at least a year with his daughter and son-in-law. From 1924 to at least 1941, the house was occupied by owners Rufus and Elizabeth Waterston. Rufus Waterston was the son James Waterston, a carpenter, stonecutter, and bricklayer. He followed in his father's footsteps as a contractor. Waterston died in 1938 and his wife and their son remained in the house for the next few years. After a series of short-term owners, the house was purchased in 1952 by Elin M. and Sixten August Walberg Johnson, a World War II veteran and maintenance man at the County Courthouse. The Johnsons lived at 609 Davis Street until Sixten's death in 1977, with Elin remaining there until at least 1986.

STAFF COMMENTS

The property is not included in the 1984 Comprehensive Cultural Resources Survey. The property is listed as non-contributing to the district in the 1985 NRHD nomination.

STANDARDS FOR REVIEW

Designation Criteria—Historic Landmark

Staff has evaluated this house for designation as a historic landmark and has determined that there is not sufficient significance to warrant individual designation as a historic landmark under the criteria set forth in City Code:

- 1) The building is more than 50 years old.
- 2) The building appears to retain a moderate degree of integrity.

- a. Architecture. The building displays characteristics of the Craftsman style.
- b. Historical association. There do not appear to be any significant historical associations.
- c. Archaeology. The building was not evaluated for its potential to yield significant data concerning the human history or prehistory of the region.
- d. Community value. The building does not possess a unique location, physical characteristic, or significant feature that contributes to the character, image, or cultural identity of the city, the neighborhood, or a particular demographic group.
- e. Landscape feature. The property is not a significant natural or designed landscape with artistic, aesthetic, cultural, or historical value to the city.

The Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation are used to evaluate projects in National Register historic districts. Applicable standards include:

2. The historic character of a property will be retained and preserved. The removal of distinctive materials or alteration of features, spaces, and spatial relationships that characterize a property will be avoided. The proposed new construction will alter the relationship of the existing structure to the streetscape; however, the applicant has made changes to the design to decrease the visual weight of the new building. No distinctive materials will be removed, as the new structure is not directly attached to the existing house.

5. Distinctive materials, features, finishes and construction techniques or examples of craftsmanship that characterize a property will be preserved. The proposed new construction will not significantly alter existing materials, features, finishes, or construction techniques.

9. New additions, exterior alterations or related new construction will not destroy historic materials, features and spatial relationships that characterize the property. The new work will be differentiated from the old and will be compatible with the historic materials, features, size, scale and proportion, and massing to protect the integrity of the property and its environment. The proposed work is differentiated via the use of steel as a focal material and via its modern proportions, fenestration patterns, and design rhythm. The new structure's materials, as well as the orientation, massing, and roof pitches, have been amended to increase compatibility with the adjacent historic structure.

10. New additions and adjacent or related new construction will be undertaken in such a manner that, if removed in the future, the essential form and integrity of the historic property and its environment would be unimpaired. If the new structure were removed, the historic building would remain intact.

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATIONS

Revise rooflines on proposed new construction to reflect the roofline on the original house, or consider the flat-roofed design. Consider gable orientations and moving the balcony to the Rainey Street elevation.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Comment on and release the permit, as the applicant has amended the original design per COA Committee recommendations.

BUZZ SAW SLICES OFF WORKER'S 4 FINGERS

R. M. Waterston, about 45, a carpenter living at 609 Davis street, suffered the loss of all but one finger on his right hand in a construction accident Monday morning at the Austin state school.

The injured man was taken to Seton infirmary after he was given emergency aid at the school.

Sgt. H. W. Heiling said Waterston was working with a buzz saw when his hand slipped. As the blade swept diagonally across his hand, Waterston lost his thumb, index, middle and ring fingers. He was employed on the construction of a new building at the school.

WATERSTON — Funeral services for Rufe M. Waterston, 58, who died Thursday morning, were held Friday at 2:30 p. m. from the Hytlin Funeral home with the Rev. H. C. Morrison and Dr. D. E. Greider officiating. Pallbearers were James A. Davis, Edward Dill, D. T. McCullough, Jr., Conrad Fox, Dolly Dreves and Tass D. Waterston. Interment was in Oakwood cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Waterston are his widow; one son, James Rufe Waterston; his step-mother, Mrs. Belle Waterston of Austin; two sisters, Miss Mary Waterston of Austin and Miss Elizabeth Waterston of Newark, N. J., and three brothers, Edward Waterston of Corpus Christi, Robert Waterston of Austin and James Waterston of Liberty Hill.
