

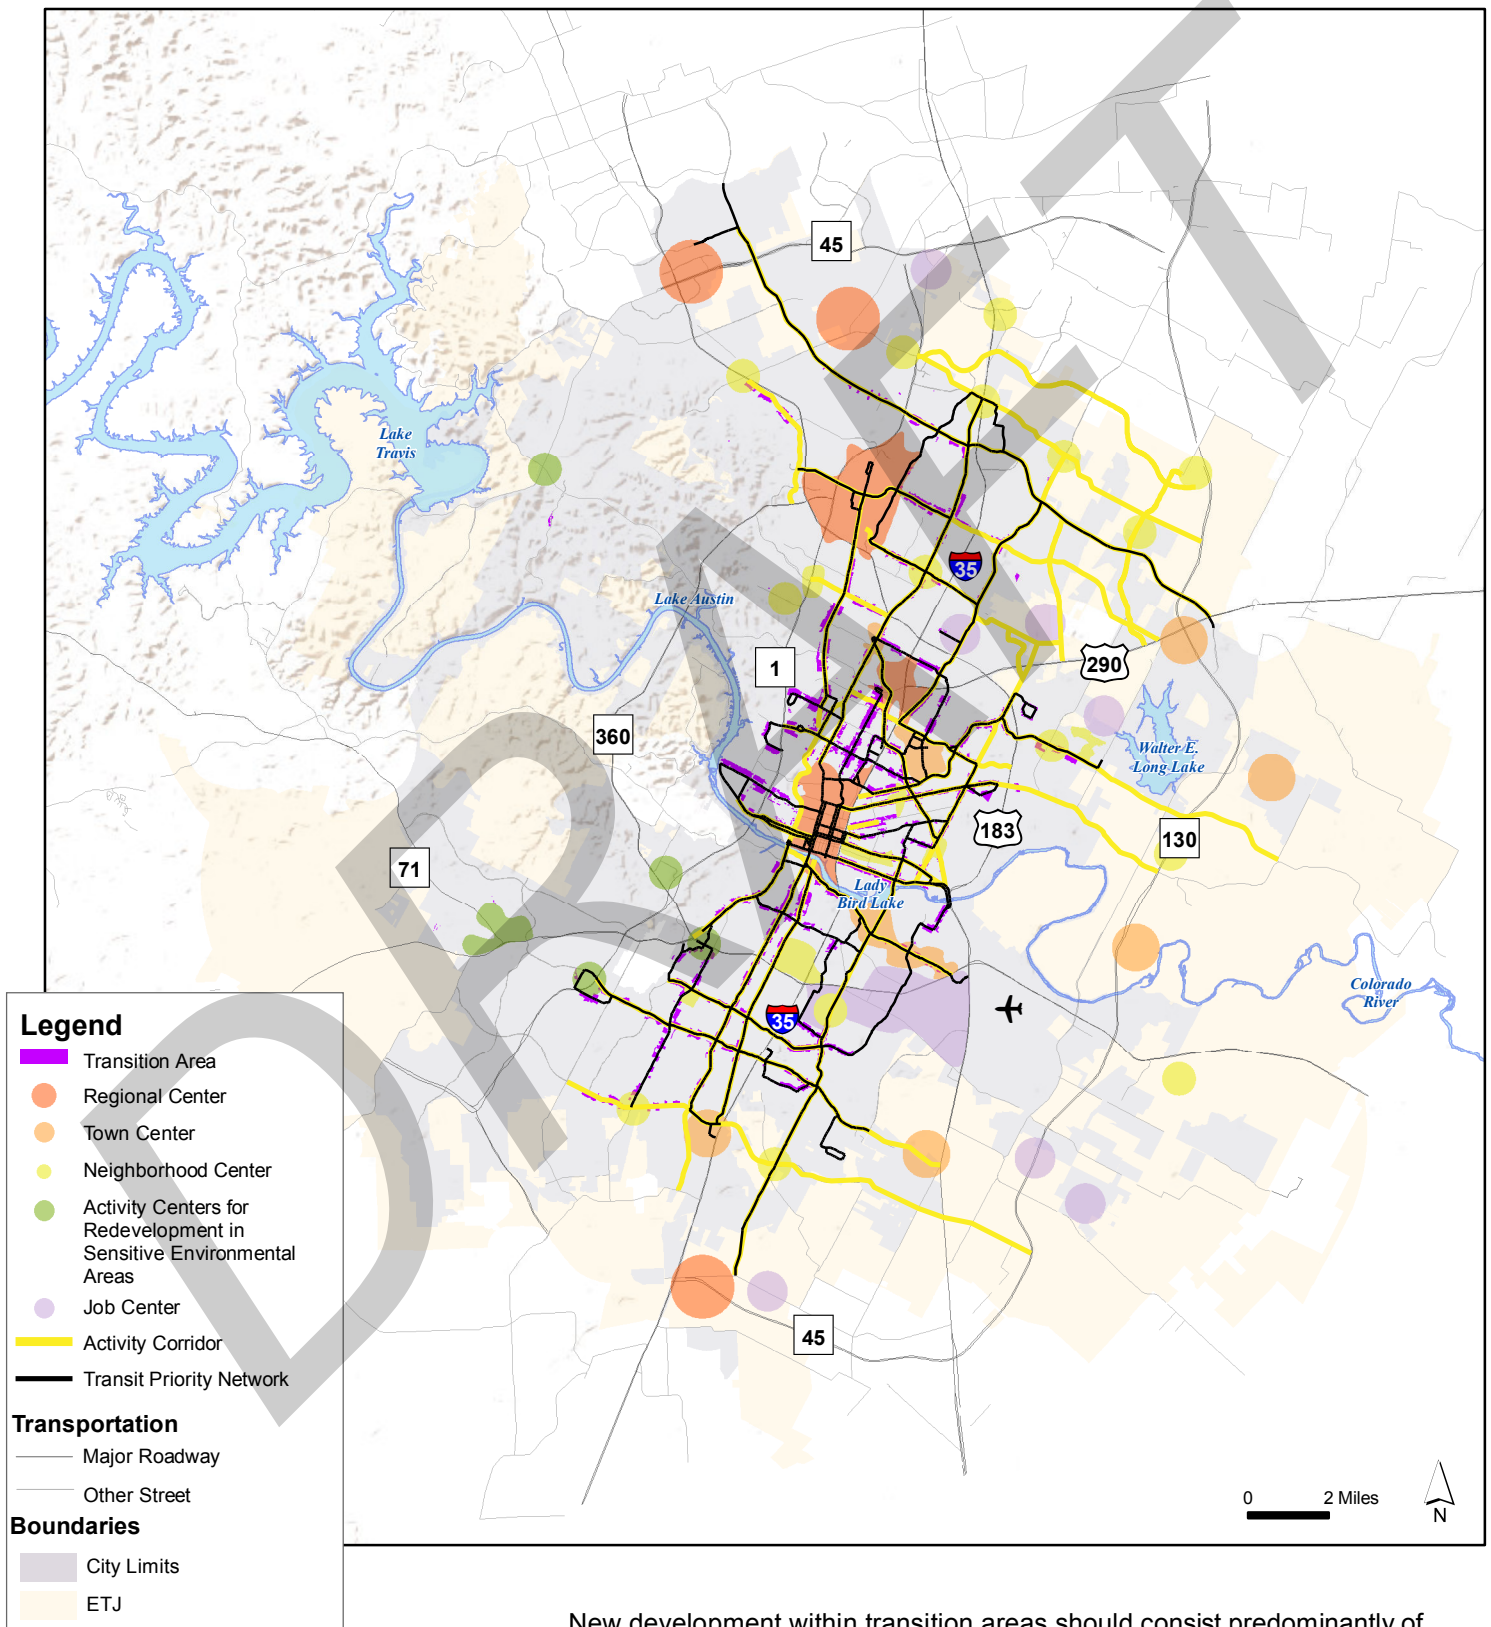

Figure 4.5 Transition Area Land Use Designation

New development within transition areas should consist predominantly of multi-unit projects that include three to ten residential units consistent in character and scale with existing single-family uses.