Dear Commissioners,

I am a neighbor on Woodlawn Blvd. writing in opposition to the demolition of the unique historic home at 1703 Woodlawn. I summarized my opposition to this teardown on the form that notified me of the Historic Landmark Commission review, but I wanted to elaborate on those comments and send over some additional information on the home.

The 1920s home at 1703 Woodlawn Blvd. is like nothing else in the neighborhood, and is even a unique structure for the company that designed it.

I was curious when the Zillow listing mentioned the University of Texas' first dean of architecture (https://www.zillow.com/homedetails/1703-Woodlawn-Blvd-Austin-TX-78703/29331506_zpid/), so I dug into the history of the house a little more. It was not the first dean as that title came later, but the first chairman of the University of Texas architecture program, Hugo Kuehne, with ties to this house.

Plans related to the home's design are in the Hugo Franz Kuehne Records and Drawings collection at the Austin History Center, the index for which I've attached here for further research. The listings for the home, referred to as the Ferris Residence, are highlighted. More information about this collection can be found here: <https://legacy.lib.utexas.edu/taro/aushc/00109/ahc-00109.html>

Kuehne and his companies are known more for their more traditional-style architecture, making the fun art deco home at 1703 Woodlawn a unique project for them as well. I am likely preaching to the choir here, but Kuehne was not only the main figure responsible for organizing UT's architecture program, but he and his firms played an instrumental role in designing much of Austin's public architecture and the layout of the Old Enfield neighborhood itself.

Thus, 1703 Woodlawn deserves to be considered a contributing structure in the historic district, if not landmarked on its own for its strong ties to an architect that shaped Austin's look as well as its unique status as a more art deco-influenced project, both for Kuehne's company as well as the neighborhood.

We must act now to start protecting some of the other older homes here and adding them to the "contributing" list for the historic district. 1703 Woodlawn has stood for nearly a century at this point. Every demolition of a home from Old Enfield's earliest days takes away from the character and tranquility that attracted many of us to this neighborhood in the first place.

The single most disruptive experience I've had in my life was the inappropriate demolition of 1602 Pease Road, which sits catty-corner to my backyard. That was a 1930s home listed as contributing to our historic district, yet the city allowed a developer to knock it down anyway. That never should have happened, and I regret not speaking up when I received the notice.

I have worked from home since before this pandemic started and 1602 Pease's demolition and rebuild was a living hell. My home shook from the activity and there was a constant flood of noise starting early in the morning and that extreme disruption lasted throughout my work day. Demolitions are violent—you are ripping a home from the ground—and it is traumatic to feel as if you can't live, work and exist peacefully within your own home.

With more people working from home than ever, permits must take that into account. A demolition permit doesn't just allow someone to knock down a structure—it allows them to completely disrupt the lives of the neighbors around them and in the case of 1602 Pease and 1703 Woodlawn, allows them to erase the integrity of a historic neighborhood. Lots are small on Woodlawn Blvd., so the potential for disruption and havoc is huge.

This is your chance to do better by 1703 Woodlawn's neighbors and protect an even more significant home. The plans released for the replacement home are nowhere near as unique, and could fit into any new-build development out there, effectively trading a piece of history for something generic that was designed not to stand out.

Please deny this demolition permit and work with the homeowner on other ways to preserve and update this home in a way that is suitable for both their needs as well as the greater good of the neighborhood. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Stef Schrader
