Curtis Williams, OLDS, explained the ordinance by use of maps.

Ken Manning and David Bodenman discussed, as well as Gil Carlson, Jim Camp and Bert Cromack and Joe Jerkins.

Mayor Cooksey stated this will be brought back on April 10, 1986 for action. Councilmember Rose said he does not think Council should act so hastily on such an important issue and recommended more time be taken. Councilmember Rose said this ordinance is something that will take a lot of time in order to make the right decisions.

The bankers of Austin were represented by Bill Renfro who introduced several speakers from the banking segment of Austin. Bill Horabin cautioned Council to take their time with this ordinance as it will have far reaching effects on the citizens. Mr. Horabin said there is deep concern because there has been no economic impact study, and no fiscal note. He feels the ordinance will send the Austin market into an economic tailspin.

Garrett Jamison, representing bankers, said the ordinance will pose a threat on reduced property values and he sees 20 to 80% reduction of property values. He said there are other ways to preserve quality.

John German, representing Franklin Savings, cautioned Council about a hurried decision.

Bill Renfro summarized the bankers presentation and asked Council to carefully analyze the ordinance.

Mayor Cooksey asked the bankers to give Council their proposed amendments to the ordinance.

Warren Lynn favors the ordinance. Bruce Byron, Provident Development Co., pointed out some changes. Kevin Fleming, Lincoln Property, wants a fiscal analysis. Dick Obenhaus, Austin Apartment Association, wants a fiscal impact study.

Bill Scudder, Austin Assn. of Builders, member of the Comprehensive Plan Steering Committee wants "water quality" defined. He also wants a social impact statement.

Gilbert Martinez asked Council not to act until they address affordable housing in Austin.

Harvey Gann supports the ordinance. Edwin Garner, a geologist also supports it. E. Mott Davis, archeologist, supports the archeological clause.

Tom McDill, a consulting engineer, asked Council to refer the ordinance to a technical group for review. Mike Lee discussed the waterway standards and Bill Olds wants the ordinance passed.

Ben Boyd discussed the fiscal impact of the ordinance on small cities, school districts, etc. John McIntyre, asked for a definition of "clean water". He said the ordinance needs more work. Bob Kent, consulting groundwater engineer, asked for clarifications. John Noell, consulting engineer, discussed the ordinance. Scott Morris, Northeast Neighborhood Association said there are no buffer zones in his watershed. John Jantze also spoke.

Sue Sanders supports the draft.

Steve Sheets said the ordinance is not needed in the Brushy Creek watershed. Tom Goebel said politics should be removed and there should be a cross-jurisdictional taxing authority.

Jay Powell spoke about the ordinance. Zack Doss is concerned about the tax impact on taxpayers and asked the ordinance be delayed. Don Damron addressed the tax issue. Molly Bean asked Council to not weaken the ordinance by compromise.

Laura Toups, consulting engineer, told Council that buffer zones do not work. Clair McAdams, member of Water and Wastewater Commission, supports the draft. Phil Savoy, chairman of the Environmental Board, told Council to make use of the technical community.

Lawrence Tarrant, petroleum engineer, discussed the ordinance from a commercial real estate view.
