OAK WILT CONTROL PROGRAM

Councilmember Rose introduced to Council a discussion of the Oak Wilt Control Program.

Charles Jordan, Director of Parks and Recreation, said "we can identify the problem, we can share information because we are running tests on our park sites, we will share with the public what works and what does not work, and we can participate in the public education, but there is no way that government can solve this problem. We are going to need the public to get involved but they are going to have to take care of their private properties because we will have our hands filled trying to deal with public land."

The City Arborist John Giedraitis showed slides of the trees of Austin. The infection gets into the water system of the tree. The tree then seals itself off within itself, which is the way a tree heals itself. When it does that it is like a self-destruct mechanism because it plugs up its own tubes and dies...it literally wilts to death for lack of water. As the fungus moves from tree to tree through the roots, large numbers of trees can be killed quickly. Insects can also spread the disease when they move from tree to tree.Mr. Giedraitis said the epidemic is now in the Kerrville area but it is also in the Oak Hill and Rollingwood sections.....Mr. Giedraitis said they are concerned with the Travis Heights area where dozens of trees have been killed. Other neighborhoods with confirmed or suspected live oak wilt include Westfield, Enfield, Highland Hills, Northwest Hills, Barton Hills, Barton Village, Southwest Hills, Delwood, Hyde Park, Windsor Park, Woolridge, Crown Ridge, Walnut Forest, North Park Estates, Balcones Woods, Walnut Crossing, Summit Oaks, Anderson Mill, Northwest Balcones, Silver Hills, Northwest Oaks and others.Since there are no preventative treatment and no cure once the tree is infected the goal of the oak wilt management program will be to bring together various groups to develop an effective disease control program. They will do mass survey this coming summer to find out where it is, how fast it is moving and how big a problem it is both in the parks and neighborhoods. The citizens will be informed what to do such as limiting the importation of firewood from the hill country; cut down red oaks as soon as they are infected; and other control methods. An urban task force on oak wilt will be formed, also. Another element will be to eradicate the disease from city parks. The City will also be working with University of Texas and Texas A&M to find a way for control. Replanting will be done in areas where oak wilt has devastated the trees.

(TRANSCRIPT FOLLOWS)

J. PUBLIC HEARING

7:00 P.M. - Continue discussion of a resolution regarding the establishment of Austin as a City of Refuge.
(Mayor Frank C. Cooksey).

MAYOR: Would Councilmembers please take your places so we can begin? I believe that Councilmember Trevino is still at home ill and probably will not be with us again today. Before we start, I want to make a statement and give you some indication of where we are going and what we're doing here tonight. This week I went to New York on a bond rating trip for the City of Austin. As a part of that trip, when I came into the City of New York, I looked, as I always did and always do, for the landmarks. One of those landmarks that I always look for when I come into the City of New York, is the Statue of Liberty. That statue is being refurbished this year by the American people. It's a symbol of liberty and justice throughout this world. It's a symbol for those who are deprived through the years. It's a symbol for those who throughout this land have come to this land because it is a place of refuge: a place of refuge for those who have suffered religious oppression and political oppression. That great poem which has been put to music comes to my mind when I see the Statue of Liberty: Give me your tired, your poor, your hungry masses yearning to be free. The reason we are refurbishing the Statue of Liberty is that it continues to be a symbol of freedom. We're not taking it down. We are refurbishing it. This year we are celebrating the Texas centennial. Those who came to Texas were greeted by some Indians. Not all of them were friendly but at least one tribe was, the Tejas. Those Indians were called Tejas because they were friendly; that's what Tejas means. My ancestor, Reverend Cloud, one of the first Episcopal priests in Texas, came to Texas in 1831 because of religious oppression. My middle name is Cloud and I bear it proudly. Austin is the "Friendly City", I was always taught when I was growing up: that's the name we take to symbolize the kind of City we are. The United States, over the last few years, has continued to take people in; victims of political oppression. Some of them have big names; Alexander Solzhenitsyn, from the Soviet Union, Anastasio Somoza, from Nicaragua, the Shah of Iran, when he needed medical treatment, Ferdinand Marcos. Some are right wing, some are left wing, but they were all fleeing political oppression. The religious ideals of our country, particularly first are the Jewish faith: are appropriate when we think about our highest ideals; Joseph in Egypt and Moses, refugees from political and religious oppression. The Jews have been dispersed throughout the world by oppression and they have found refuge in the United States; we thank God for that; the Christian faith, the words of Jesus of Nazareth, "I was a stranger and you took me in", those words that should grab the heart of everyone that has the religious tradition of Christianity as part of their hearts and souls and minds. All of this leads me to embrace the cause of those political refugees who now need our assistance from other lands; particularly from El Salvador and Guatemala, but also from Chile, perhaps Nicaragua, perhaps eventually the Union of South Africa, we don't know how that will turn out. This was a resolution intended to symbolize the continuance of our welcome to political refugees to urge adoption by the United States government of legal and administrative standards that allow political refugees admission to the United States and also to urge compliance with the constitution, laws and treaty of the United States and regardless of the political demagoguery which has characterized it otherwise, that is and was and remains the intent of my resolution. Some objections have been raised to this resolution; first that it's not a City's business. Evidently the people that have raised that objection do not understand the Town Hall tradition in the United States. It's a great tradition: a tradition of discussing political issues of national, state, and local importance at the local level, in town meetings. I remember attending some of that type of meeting myself, held by our own Congressman, Jake Pickle, at one time. These people evidently think we're not taking care of traffic while we are doing this. For those who have some confusion about that, I would refer them to something already taken care of on tonight's agenda on page 8; . . . which we did take care of traffic signals quite well in the City of Austin and we will be glad to take care of any of the traffic needs that any of you, whether high or of lower state, want taken care of now or in the future. As a matter of fact, we think we do real well on traffic in Austin, compared to Houston, Dallas, or San Antonio. Now, no applause, thank you...now we've been also told that we should stay out of federal issues; I would say that first of all it's not a federal issue to extend a welcome to our community to anyone; I do it all the time here at this podium, with extensions of friendship, making people honorary citizens, extending a welcome to visitors in Austin, issuing proclamations. I've even issued some of those at the request of the Governor. We believe that issuing welcome to this community is our privilege and sometimes our duty. Now, having said that, let me say that at one time or another I've been told, from time-to-time and particularly I remember by T.V. Smith, who was an old professor of mine, that wherever you have a great crusade there is bound to be a little hypocrisy in it somewhere; and I think that's true; we've had a little, perhaps on both sides. The churches are certainly trying to do their work to welcome people, and it is their obligation under their religion to do so, to tend to the suffering, and the weak, and the oppressed, and if they ever go out of that business, they are out of the church and synagogue business for sure. I assured them that I didn't want them to break the law in doing so. Some of them, perhaps, want to do that anyway and it's a risk that they take, but it's not a risk that a public official can advise them to take; as part of the great tradition of religion, standing up to unjust laws, the Hebrew prophets did it, Jesus did it, and through the centuries martyrs have done it, but I think we ought to be honest about it when we decide to do it. Immigration Lawyers...we know you have a little interest in seeing a flow of business. I'm not saying you're totally motivated by that. Any good lawyer is motivated by more than the simple flow of business; we see a lot of them around here who give of their time, some of them are developer's lawyers who work on environmental ordinances and do a heck of a good job protecting the environment, so I assume an immigration lawyer could rise above the need for business to try to protect innocent people who are in a position of possible suffering, perhaps whose lives might be threatened. We have political objectives involved in this, of the left and of the right and perhaps we should recognize that that is the case, and then of course we have the press, which in addition to promoting the truth, also or quite often in the business of promoting a very good heavy weight fight; Perhaps some of them should go into the fight promotion business, and of course some of the simple minded treatment that we get anytime someone has 30 seconds to explain a very complex subject, but then we have some of the opposition, some of it based on bigotry and fear, anger and hostility, with an undercurrent of racism and selfishness which tries to raise itself to some patriotic zeal and take upon itself and take away from us the American flag, which we deserve just as much as they and maybe more so on occasions; and then we have the Immigration Officials who use such words as, "dumping on our doorstep", who in Los Angeles disgraced themselves with coercion, and who, in these situations evidently, thrived on epitomizing bureaucracy at it's very worst: a conspiracy of pettiness within government. And then we have the super patriots who label everyone as a "Communist Conspirator" no matter how pure their motives; to them Mother Teresa would undoubtedly be a conspirator. Then we have those who are absorbed by the fear of loss of jobs and I do have some pity for them, but the truth of the matter is that there was never an alien admitted to this country who was not a threat to someone else already in it; in terms of competition for jobs or economic advantage, and then last but not least, we had the political pygmies, who would have taken this issue truly for their own political gain to bring each one of themselves publicity and notoriety, and for no other reason; experts in misrepresentation and characterization of the motives of others without even taking the trouble to speak to those who they were criticizing. They certainly weren't confused by the information available to them. Now, all of those base and bases of motivations were involved here. I must say that of the two I certainly prefer the hypocrisies of the supporters to the base motivations of the detractors, and nothing has happened in this matter to make me less proud of my original objective; those objectives being to symbolize the continuing welcome of political refugees to this city and this country; to urge the adoption of legal and administrative standards that allow these persons admission to the United States and urge compliance to the constitution, laws, and treaties of the United States, and then of course even a politician might have an ethical or religious objective or two. Unfortunately, what this resolution has produced is a divided, emotional situation in our community...divided support for the resolution from the Council. Does that mean that this community and country turns its back on the suffering? Turns its back on those whose lives are threatened by political and religious oppression? If they came today, would we reject Andrei Sakharov, or Bishop Tutu? I think that what this situation now requires, because I am informed that there is divided support for this resolution, is that we take a different tack, and that we take this tack as individuals. For myself, I will continue to take the motto of Sam Houston, "Do right and risk the consequences". I will campaign against the inequality of the administration of the Immigration and Naturalization Service rules, which produces a disparity of only 3% being admitted from El Salvador, or 33% are admitted from other countries, found more politically favorable. I will continue to welcome personally into this community, the politically persecuted, rich and poor, high and low. I will continue to support the police policies that we presently follow in this community, which are right policies for our community and I will continue to seek a solution to the problems of those who throughout this world seek to identify the United States on the continuing basis as a place of refuge, a place where we will recognize their freedom to speak, recognize their freedom to disagree and I say to you that this man who came here last week, the Lutheran Minister, formally an attorney in El Salvador, represents the fruit of that kind of policy. For those of you who continue to wish to take your course, you have the freedom to do that. I shall take mine and now because we do not have support to continue this hearing, it shall be called to a close and the resolution shall be withdrawn.

(Planning Commission did not have time to hear this at their last meeting.)

PUBLIC HEARING - ESTABLISHING "LO/W" LIMITED OFFICE/WAREHOUSE DISTRICT

Mayor Cooksey opened the public hearing set for 4:00 p.m. on an amendment to Chapter 13-2A, establishing "LO/W" Limited Office/Warehouse district.

Marie Gaines, Office of Land Development Services, stated, "The amendment is designed to provide some alternatives to standard commercial service district, the general retail district, and the "LI" limited industrial zoning. In the North Lamar Study and the Golden Triangle Study there were several tracts of land where property owners had identified an interest to locate office warehouse district but there was no choice other than to zone it commercial services. We think the district that is forwarded to you by the Planning Commission with some modifications proposed by the Zoning Oversight Committee will allow you the opportunity and flexibility to allow office warehousing in recommended locations when the case comes up for your consideration. This district has been forwarded to you. It should have an April 2 draft. The Commission considered this Tuesday night and recommended the draft unanimously. They did request that you be aware of the fact that the Zoning Oversight Committee had not yet considered the draft and forwarded that information to you. Ms. Frances Schenckan, Chairman of the Commission, is here tonight to elaborate on that point. I also would like to point out to you that the Zoning Oversight Committee has provided a memo to you from the chairman and they asked for three things to be done to this base district: (1) Change the name to Warehouse/Office to more clearly define the type that is permitted in the district; (2) That you further modify the district provisions by allowing no more than a maximum FAR of .25; (3) That the height be a maximum of one story or 25 feet; (4) The interior side yards and rear yards be a maximum of 25 feet. In addition the building coverage be reduced from 50 to 40% and the impervious cover from 60% to 50%. In addition, as a final point, regarding the configuration of how this district ought to be shaped, a key element is where the loading dock should be located. The Zoning Oversight is recommending that the loading dock is placed somewhere other than the office entrance. All of these provisions, we feel, make an excellent example of an office warehouse district. Furthermore this district will be placed in the Code between the "CS" and "LI" Districts." Ms. Gaines went on to say the staff agrees and think they make an excellent example of an office/warehouse district.

Councilmember Shipman referred to memos which the Council received concerning site plan and loading dock. Ms. Gaines discussed them with her concerning language of the ordinance.

Betty Matou, Georgian Acres Neighborhood Association, said there should be a provision requiring office area to face the street.

Motion - FIRST READING ONLY

Councilmember Shipman made a motion to approve the ordinance as recommended by the Zoning Oversight Committee, noting that it will include reference to Section 6100 of the Zoning Ordinance which will include site plan and loading dock location and a minimum percentage of office space included in the site plan, and that the "or" on Page 2, the third sentence from the ending of the purposes shall read "or" when physical conditions as opposed to "and", and this shall be FIRST READING ONLY. Councilmember Urdy seconded the motion which passed by a vote of 6-0 with Mayor Pro Tem Trevino absent.

ZONING HEARINGS

Mayor Cooksey announced Council would hear zoning cases which had been scheduled for hearing at 4:00 and 5:00 p.m. Council heard and closed the public hearing on the first case. The second case was withdrawn and the third case was postponed until the May zoning cycle.
