Hon. Mayor and City Council,

Gentlemen:

The protest of Donnelly & White Company regarding plumbing material that you referred to the Library Committee has received our attention.

We herewith return original protest for your files. Our Committee met Thursday, June 16, 1932, at Mr. Kuehne's (Architect) office. We had both the Donnelly & White representative and Mr. Martin, the Contractor, before our Committee for a hearing. After going into the matter fully, the committee passed the following resolution:

"In as much as Mr. John L. Martin, the successful bidder, is an Austin contractor and dealer, it is the sense of this committee that we have no jurisdiction in determining from whom the contractor shall buy his plumbing fixtures, so long as they comply with detail list in original specifications."

Respectfully submitted,

Library Building Committee,

(Sgd) H. H. Luedecke, Chairman."

The following communication from the Austin Street Railway Company was read:

"Austin, Texas, June 16, 1932.

Adam R. Johnson, City Manager,
Austin, Texas.

Dear Mr. Johnson:

In order to avoid one transfer on the Oil Mill Line, we would accordingly request that the bus route covering the east section of the City be as follows:

Starting at the intersection of Congress Avenue and 6th Street, run north on Congress Avenue to 7th Street;

East on 7th Street to Medina Street;

South on Medina Street to 6th Street;

East on Sixth ~~6th~~ Street to Chicon Street;

North on Chicon Street to Tillotson Street;

East on Tillotson Street to Lincoln Street;

South on Lincoln Street to 11th Street;

West on 11th Street to Chicon Street;

South on Chicon Street to 6th Street;

West on 6th Street to Medina Street;

North on Medina Street to 7th Street;

West on 7th Street to Brazos Street;

South on Brazos Street to 6th Street;

West on 6th Street to Congress Avenue.

As this would eliminate one transfer, we conclude it would be very much more acceptable to the passengers than to turn the bus at Waller or Medina Street, and would save an extra transfer for all passengers other than those westbound at Congress Avenue.

Yours truly,

(Sgd) J. F. Springfield,
General Manager. "
