Austin Recycles Games – Winners Announced!

AUSTIN, TEXAS – Austin Resource Recovery is pleased to announce the winners of the Austin Recycles Games: District 8 for Most Overall Recycling and District 6 for Most Improved.

Austin Resource Recovery kicked off the Austin Recycles Games, a competition among the 10 city council districts to increase recycling, on Nov. 30, 2015. The Austin Recycles Games calculated the pounds of recyclables collected per household in each district from Nov. 30 through April 1, 2016.

By the end of the four-month competition, District 8 recycled a total of 253 pounds per household to win Most Overall Recycling. District 10 takes a close second in this category with an average of 250 pounds. District 8 maintained their No. 1 position for most of the Recycles Games, never falling out of the top three. For their award, they will receive a beautification project for the Circle C Ranch Metropolitan Park.

District 6 increased their recycling by an impressive 44 percent to win the Most Improved category. They ended the competition recycling 62.65 pounds per household, compared to 43.63 pounds before the competition began. For their award, District 6 will receive a beautification project for the Spicewood Springs Library.

“Congratulations to District 8 and District 6 for their inspiring accomplishments during the Austin Recycles Games,” said Austin Resource Recovery Director Bob Gedert. “These districts have made important strides to help Austin move toward our Zero Waste goal and we are thrilled the whole community stepped up to the challenge.”

“Our most recent measurements show that recycling is up 7 percent citywide since the Recycles Games began. District 8 and District 6 won the Austin Recycles Games, but everybody wins when we recycle more and take another step toward Zero Waste,” said Gedert.

The Austin Recycles Games initiative follows a community engagement process conducted in Aug. 2015 where City officials asked residents to identify barriers to recycling. More than 1,500 residents participated and contributed insights for ways to increase recycling.
