

The Austin Nature and Science Center

Presents

Science and Nature Roadside Attractions

to help Daisies, Brownies, Juniors and Older Girl Scouts along their new Journeys

Daisies

A Nose to Nature

Let's go on a hike in Austin's Zilker Nature Preserve. Learn about hiking safely and what to bring with you to help explore nature. Smell the air, the trees and the flowers. Discover how you can be considerate and caring of each other and the environment while hiking. Investigate different plants and their seeds while hiking. Identify some plants that should not be in the preserve. Sit quietly for a moment to listen to the sounds of nature. Look for clues left by animals that use the preserve for their home.

What's in the Water?

Meet at the Sheffield Education Center at Barton Springs in Zilker Park. Play a game to explore the journey of a water droplet as you travel around the water cycle. Hike to Lower Barton Creek to wade in the water and collect aquatic insects. Bring the collection back to the lab to identify critters and determine the health of the creek. Explore some reasons why Barton Springs Pool must close sometimes and how we can help keep it clean.

After the Sun Goes Down

Spend some time with us in the dark. Enter the StarLab an inflatable planetarium to learn about the night sky. Listen to Native American stories as you learn to identify constellations. The sun is the closest star to Earth and our source of energy, but what about the energy in other stars? Turn on the lights, but which light bulb should you use. Explore the electromagnetic spectrum and discover how important it is to each of us.
