A BMX park with dirt jumps and a concrete bowl section would be great.

Bmx, MTB dirt jump park

Bicycle access to the park leaves a lot to be desired. The most safe route is via walnut creek trail and is nearly 10 miles (despite a distance between the two points of about 3 miles) from the Montopolis Bridge, including perilous riding on the high-speed 969. Coming from the Levander loop area there should be a trail along the river accessing the park should be a trail of 3-5 miles in length, and of similar quality to the hike and bike trail around town lake. Investment in recreational facilities should be matched by investment in accessibility for those arriving by means other than driving.

Avoid clearing more land than needed. Create sustainable and unique BMX and MBX trails and jumping areas. Create a unique skatepark for year round usage. By providing unique bike/skate amenities created from input from the local bike/skate community this park can become a world class destination. By appealing to all levels of riding and skating the park will draw in a larger portion of the community.

Bike park and trails, I don't care where you put them they'll be used by me and my friends!

I really enjoy mountain bike trails through the woods and near water. If I could ride my mountain bike on a trail through the woods or on a fun progressive track under the trees and near the water that would be an great day in Austin. And if I could top it off by swimming in the river after to cool off that would be amazing. The complete package.

Avoid Land clearing: save as many trees. Preserve nature, wildscapes. Permaculture & food forests.

I am a birder, so any plans to improve birding would be appreciated. These might be things like having a bird-blind with bird feeders, or planting flowers that attract certain birds. Access to the water would open up other birding opportunities. Central park in NYC has done a super job of providing areas that enhance birding activities. Thank you.

Development of all sorts should be minimized. The fundamental purposes of parks is to protect the environment that sustains us all, not simply to divert bored people.

I would like this park to become as much of a wildlife magnet at Commons Ford has, and their strategy of native prairie restoration has done a great job. I think this park has great potential for providing amazing resources for the community, but as a die-hard nature lover, I am also worried this park will be over-developed. There are plenty of county parks nearby with lots of sporting amenities, to the point where there isn't much space left for nature-viewing. I would like this park to focus more on walking trails, nature/fishing, and history.

It would be great to incorporate garden sites without also having vehicle access to river. Why not pedestrian access to river AND agriculture both. Also, birdwatching habitat and cultural center needed.

Anonymous

9/14/2019 03:05 PM

Consider removing central vehicle access to the river, limiting vehicles of the general public to the Town section while providing limited access for special purpose vehicles to support cultural, recreational, and other events in the Clearing.

We need a Velosolutions style pump track here in Austin. Oklahoma City and Rogers, AR have them and they're awesome.

With the ~5 Miles between Longhorn dam and the park, it's a fantastic opportunity for starter river boating in canoes, kayaks, etc. Having access in the lower fields for at least public river boat access and/or a contracted service like the boat rentals on Lady Bird Lake, possibly with shuttle services between parking at the park and being dropped off below the dam.

Having been a part of the 9th street bmx jumps for years, I can say that this area is perfect a similar park. I overheard that a group is proposing a mix of skate and bike features. The more the merrier. The pump tracks and skate park is great for roller skaters, bikers, and scooters, and skateboarders.

We live in California and come to the Chase Hawk BMX competition in Austin every year. Last year that had to move it to Pflugerville since they have a larger skate park. Austin deserves to have a world class skate and bike park. We will always come back to ride the competition, but having a world class place in Austin to host the Chase Hawk Born and Raised event would draw massive crowds and riders. We love Austin and cannot wait to come back. The addition of a bmx track for our kids and the city would be amazing!

There are no bike parks in Austin. There is a lift service bike park in Burnet Texas that charges $40 per day. We drove by this land, and with the slope to the river, there is plenty of elevation to have a really cool bike park. Thank You!

NEW SKATEPARK on the Colorado River Please Help support our efforts to build a new Skatepark in Trevino Park. PLEASE COMPLETE SURVEY BELOW The city is building a very large new park (330 acres) along the Colorado River. This is a opportunity to advocate for a new skatepark in the East Austin Area. Getting in on the early planning stages give everyone the opportunity to have input on what is built. A pump track and bowl areas similar to what is in Taylor, and Fredericksburg come to mind. These parks were built by a company called Evergreen Skateparks and are considered the "cadillac of skateparks", and with whom we have been in contact. If you know someone who skates or has kids that do, this is a unique opportunity to get another new skatepark. Please help support our efforts even if you are not a skateboarder. The more skaters and people who help advocate for this park will make its adoption more likely. Have a say in what gets built in your city.

Please share and send this Invite to your skater friends and those who will help us make this new skatepark a reality. We have been in contact with a representative of the City of Austin Parks Division and he continues to fully support the effort being put forth for the East Side Trevino skate/bike park. He reiterated that there is nothing like this on the East Side and he simply needs all of us to complete the survey found in link below. Patrick reminded me that there are no competing entities, and that with the support of the community, this project might make it to the finish line. PLEASE COMPLETE SURVEY: We have an opportunity for bmx, mtb, and skate facilities at John Trevino Metro Park in Austin. Please complete the survey to express your desire for these kinds of facilities - numbers and responses matter!
https://www.speakupaustin.org/johntrevinometropark/survey_tools/my-day-at-trevino-park Suggestions for completing survey: The survey is broken up in to sections 1. Season (click spring) 2. To save time, you can just continue clicking save and continue. Make sure you click on save/continue until you reach the final page. One completed, the web-page will notify you that the survey has been submitted. The City of Austin Parks and Recreation Department, together with a team of consultants, is in the master planning process for the John Treviño Jr. Metropolitan Park. The land for the park - located along the Colorado River between highways 183 and 130 - was acquired by the Austin Parks and Recreation Department in 2003. The site represents an opportunity to open 330 acres of new parkland, including river access, to the residents of Austin We propose a large scale mountain bike, BMX, and skate park to include amenities such as a concrete skate/bike park, hard surfaced pump track and jump lines, and mountain bike trails.
