Additional Backup Information
If approved, funding will be provided for a one-year contract to the Housing Authority of the City of Austin (HACA). The Tenant-Based Rental Assistance (TBRA) program provides rental housing subsidies and security deposits to eligible families who would otherwise be homeless. To be eligible for the program, households must be working towards self-sufficiency with a case manager and have a total household income at or below 50 percent of the Austin area Median Family Income (currently $38,900 for a family of four). The contract term shall be from October 1, 2016, to September 30, 2017. HACA verifies client and property eligibility, manages leasing terms, and makes rental subsidy payments directly to landlords each month. HACA also serves as a liaison between clients and landlords to ensure that landlords understand clients are only eligible for TBRA as long as the household meets regulatory and program requirements. This program will serve up to 75 households. Families can receive assistance through the TBRA program for up to 18

months with a possible six-month extension. Each household will pay no more than 30 percent of its monthly income towards rent. The TBRA program will pay the difference between what the household can afford and the actual rent amount. As a family's income increases, the amounts paid by the program decrease accordingly. All payments made by the TBRA program are paid directly to the landlord.

NNHCD hereby designates Housing Authority of the City of Austin as a subrecipient for the Tenant-Based Rental Assistance contract for fiscal year 2016-17 based upon their experience for more than 20 years. Housing Authority of the City of Austin is the largest local provider of rental housing subsidies.
