Additional Backup Information:

The contract will provide liquid phosphate for Austin Water treatment plants. Liquid phosphate is used in the treatment of the drinking water at the water treatment plants to reduce the amount of scale formed in the distribution system lines. If the water treatment plants do not add liquid phosphate during the treatment process, there would be a significant amount of additional scale built-up over time.

This contract will replace a current contract which expires December 19, 2019. The requested authorization amount was determined using estimates of increased annual usage and historical spending.
