

Charles Chadwell

Charles Chadwell has served on the Round Rock ISD Board of Trustees in 2008 and has lived in the Round Rock community for more than 20 years. He served on the RRISD 2008 Citizens Bond Committee, as president of the Round Rock High School PTSA and on numerous other community committees. Chadwell believes there must be a balance between the needs of a school district and the ability of its community to support those needs. He also states that Trustees must work to keep taxes reasonable while continually meeting new standards set for students.

Chadwell has more than 20 years of professional experience in engineering and management in the semiconductor design industry. He holds a Bachelors of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering Technology from Clemson University and a Master's of Science in Technology Commercialization from the University of Texas at Austin.

Chadwell has two sons.
