Additional Backup Information:

The purpose of the federal Ryan White HIV/AIDS Program (RWHAP) is to provide medical and support services for people with HIV. Different "Parts" of the grant provide services for low-income people with HIV through various channels. Part A RWHAP funding is awarded to urban areas most severely impacted by the HIV/AIDS epidemic.

The Austin Part A Transitional Grant Area (TGA) consists of Bastrop, Caldwell, Hays, Travis, and Williamson Counties. The TGA received $5.17 million in funding for the current year. Direct services funded by Part A are delivered by community-based organizations through contracts with the City. Contracts and other grant oversight are managed by Austin Public Health in its designated role as Administrative Agent.

The primary goal of RWHAP services is to provide access to and maintenance in medical care to people with HIV in order to achieve viral suppression. Viral suppression through antiretroviral medication is the primary key to remaining healthy for people with HIV and is a crucial element of ending the HIV/AIDS epidemic.

Through this agreement, the Austin TGA will reimburse the Texas Department of State Health Services for HIV medications supplied through the Texas AIDS Drug Assistance Program (also known as ADAP). This established partnership provides medications to eligible people with HIV in the TGA who have no prescription coverage from Medicare, Medicaid, or private insurance. The Texas Department of State Health Services has access to steeply discounted pricing through the federal 340B drug program. The partnership is a cost-effective and efficient way of using Part A funding to help people with HIV in the TGA achieve viral suppression, remain healthy, and reduce further transmission of the virus, which are all key pillars of ending the HIV epidemic.

Strategic Outcome(s):

Health and Environment.
