Heck yes!
Simplify is not an exclusively 21st century concept, but we can do this.

The section " 409 FIRST RESPONDER EMERGENCY PLANS
409.1 Scope. First Responder Emergency Plans shall be plans assembled by AFD to aid First Responders in familiarity with the building and its fire safety features in the event of an emergency. Plans will also aid with annual maintenance inspections" is not robust enough. The emergency plans should be part of an overarching emergency plan. Not just for one building.

The individual First Responder Emergency Plans are just a piece of the integrated response procedures. The plans give first responders familiarity with new buildings that have increasingly complex layouts capturing the information for current and future use. These plans assist with current programs that AFD has been working on internally for the last year. We are using this new portion of the Fire Code to accelerate our current efforts.
