Bicycle Advisory Council Recommendation in response to Austin Living Strategies Program

Recommendation 20210720-001

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, the BAC recommends that the City of Austin work with stakeholders and community members to create and fully fund a Living Streets program that would allow the following:

- Community-led traffic calming and placemaking installations on neighborhood streets, using resident-sourced creative materials
- A community-led Healthy Streets permit using either resident-sourced materials or City-owned infrastructure designated for this program
- A simplified permit process, available in at least English and Spanish, and less burdensome regulations for block parties, also considering addressing the regulations listed in the attached document
- A play street permit allowing residential streets to be closed to through-traffic for several hours for up to a certain number of days per week for children's play

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, the Living Streets program should prioritize equity, making sure that special attention is given to reaching out to marginalized communities to solicit their feedback to help shape, participate in, and benefit from such a program.
