This action will approve an interlocal agreement with Austin Community College (ACC) to provide training classes and individual coaching sessions on the use of Quickbooks accounting software to small business owners. The classes and coaching sessions offered through this agreement will help small business owners and entrepreneurs gain or improve their proficiency in using Quickbooks, which is an accounting/bookkeeping software widely used by small businesses. It is expected that about 280 business owners will be provided with these services.

The classes will be held in the Economic Growth and Redevelopment Services Office Small Business Development Program's (SBDP) PC Lab at One Texas Center, with ACC providing the instructor and materials. Introductory, Intermediate, and Advanced classes will be offered to assist clients at various skill levels, and the SBDP will work with ACC to develop industry specific classes as well. The students will receive Continuing Education Credits for the classes through ACC.

The coaching sessions will be one-to-one, one-hour sessions designed to help the client with a specific need or problem related to the use of Quickbooks accounting/bookkeeping software. The coaching sessions will also be provided at the SBDP's One Texas Center location, with ACC providing the instructor/coach.

This agreement is entered into under the provisions of the Interlocal Cooperation Act, Chapter 791, Texas
