Based on input from small group discussions, Community Meeting #1, and Survey Questionnaire results to date

The following draft planning values have been derived from input from small group discussions, community meeting, and survey results to date. These values will guide the planning team in what they suggest through the master planning process.

- Honor and communicate the legacy of John Treviño Jr.
- Increase connectivity and public transportation access to the park.
- Emphasize the importance of family by offering a place for gathering that is essential for the communities around the park.
- Offer opportunities for people of all ages to learn about and connect to nature.
- Include places for play and sport that support health and community.

Adapt the Heritage of the Site

To adapt the heritage of the site, John Treviño Jr. Metro Park should:

- Acknowledge the long history and heritage of the land, from indigenous inhabitants to more recent residents and uses.
- Utilize existing structures for new purposes where possible.
- Build on the existing fences and hedgerows.
- Offer a connection to the agricultural history of the region while also adapting to the changes that are brought about by population and development growth.
- Carry the site's productive agricultural heritage into the present and future by exploring possibilities for food production and agricultural education.
- Protect the existing beauty, viewsheds and serene quality of the park.

Engage the Intersection of Land and River

To engage the intersection of land and river, John Treviño Jr. Metro Park should:

- Increase habitat within the park to support a healthier city and river for people, plants, and animals.
- Offer opportunities to learn about the site's unique ecologies.
- Offer safe access to the river.
- Strengthen existing or regenerate erased riparian and prairie ecologies.
- Allow for the ongoing evolution of this unique urban ecology.
